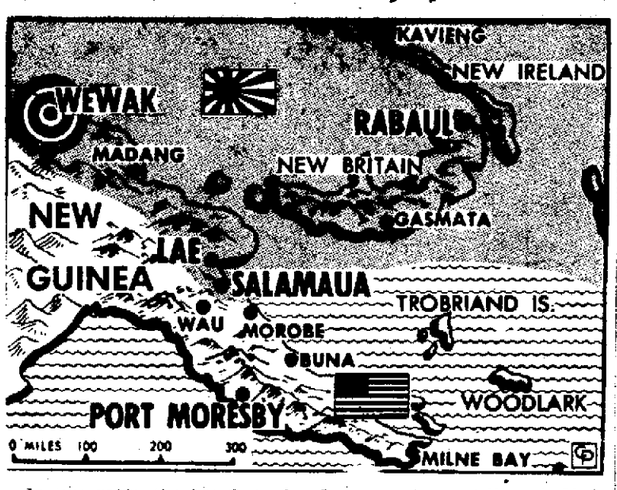
BATTER ITALY FROM SEA, AIR

Allies Poised for Salamaua Smash

Record Raids on Jap Base



In two raids, the heaviest of the entire southwest Pacific campaign, Allied airmen destroyed more than 200 of 225 Japanese planes at Wewak, New Guinea. Shaded area on the map above shows the portion of the island still held by the Japs.

Enemy's Disaster at Wewak Begins To Tell; Tokyo Asks 'More Planes.'

GROUND TROOPS CLOSE IN

Take Ridge Four Miles From Main Base; Naval Clash Kills 1,000 Nips.

(By United Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific—Allied ground forces in New Guinea were in position today for a quick move against Salamaua after cleaning out enemy resistance on Bobdubi ridge, four miles southeast of the Japanese coastal stronghold.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique, for the first time in days, failed to note a single Japanese aerial foray over New Guinea, indicating the Wewak disaster in which the enemy lost 215 of a fleet of 225 aircraft was a decisive stroke.

(Tokyo radio broadcasts said the south Pacific fighting had grown into a "decisive" struggle. Official spokesmen told the Japanese people that more and more planes must be sent to the area. The losses at Wewak were not mentioned.)

Salamaua, the major enemy base on the northeast New Guinea coast, partly in ruins from previous air raids, was battered by Liberators which ranged up the coast Wednesday and Thursday to hit barges around Lae and the Finsch harbor town area.

A delayed dispatch from Guadalcanal said 1,000 Japanese troops were killed in a 30-minute sea fight in Vella gulf Tuesday night when an American task force sank

NEW WEAPON?

Goebbels Promises Relief From Allied Air Attacks.

(By United Press)

Nazi Propaganda Chief Paul Joseph Goebbels, apparently trying to cheer up Germans living in bomb-shattered districts, promised today that Germany was perfecting a new weapon against aerial attack.

Goebbels wrote in his newspaper, Das Reich, that "day and night, innumerable industrious hands are working on it." He gave no description of the alleged weapon, but promised it would end the "distress and misery" heaped upon German cities.

He also hinted that Germany was making hurried plans for future military operations, but was vague on actual preparations.

OHIO FLIER KILLED

COLORADO SPRINGS —(U.P.)— Paterson Field officials announced today that Lieut. Merle T. Lewis, Ellet, O., was killed in the crash of an army trainer plane yesterday. He is survived by his wife, Betty, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Lewis, of Ellet.

Coming Events Cast Shadows

Omen of things to come can be seen in this picture if one believes that "coming events cast their shadows." While their bodies cast long shadows, bewildered German soldiers line up for routine search after their capture by the American Seventh army in the final drive to Messina.

STUDY TAX TO AID JUVENILES

Recreation Board Members To Discuss Levy as Means of Curbing Delinquency.

In a move looking toward the creation of comprehensive city-wide recreation program to solve Mansfield's juvenile delinquency problem, the city recreation board, today was studying the advisability of a tax levy to obtain funds for financing such a program.

Floyd Dent, recreation chairman, said the board has called a special meeting tentatively set for Sept. 1 to discuss the levy proposal. If it decides in favor of the plan, the levy question will be submitted for decision of Mansfield voters at the fall election, Nov. 2.

Dent said that the board has slightly more than three weeks to consider the propsal. Deadline for placing the issue on the November ballot is Sept. 15.

Pointing out that the war time delinquency problem is one which should be a matter of concern to the entire city, the chairman said the board would welcome suggestions and advice from all Mansfield groups and individuals between now and the Sept. 1 meeting when the board epects to make a decision.

Dent pointed out that the present recreation program being organized by the Junior Association of Commerce is a commendable one but he expressed the opinion that to combat the delinquency problem more successfully, it should be more extensive.

"The J. A. C. organization is

BRITISH MISSION COMES TO U. S.

Confers In Washington On War Against Japan.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A British military mission including officers of the land, sea and air services has arrived here for consultations regarded as laying the groundwork for future U. S.-British operations against Japan.

In announcing arrival of the mission, headed by Major Gen. J. S. Lethbridge of the Royal engineers, the British information service said the British government "does not consider it premature to formulate plans for its future operations against Japan in concert with the United States and other members of the British commonwealth when their full combined forces can be brought to bear against the common enemy in the Pacific."

Calls on Fisher To Explain High Payment for Rum

COLUMBUS —(UP)— State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson today asked State Liquor Director Don A. Fisher to explain why the state paid approximately $10 more per case for 5,000 cases of 25-year-old Portuguese brandy than five private liquor dealers paid for the same stock.

Ferguson said examination of liquor department records showed the state bought 5,000 cases of Gordon Rue, 84-proof Portuguese brandy, from the William Bauer Co., of Cleveland, May 24, at $38.68 per case.

The Stone Grill company stores in Cleveland, Toledo, Columbus and Akron, and Al Carroll of Columbus certified purchases of the identical liquor in 50 to 100-case lots direct from Star Liquor Dealers, Inc., Long Island, N. Y., for $27.43 a case, Ferguson said.

Fisher said he had not received Ferguson's request but would investigate the matter immediately.

SHIP DISABLED

Eastern States Has Engine Trouble Off Cleveland.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The passenger steamer Eastern States, bound from Detroit to Buffalo with approximately 500 passengers and crew, today was disabled by engine trouble about 45 miles northeast of Cleveland harbor.

The Great Lakes Towing Co. said the tugs California and Louisiana had been sent to the aid of the lake steamer, operated by the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation company. The vessel will be towed into Cleveland, arriving late today.

James McMillan, D. & C. general manager, said at Detroit a broken crank pin bolt caused the engine trouble.

"There is no cause of anxiety," he added. "It's just like changing a tire on your automobile."

BACK HOME

Frau Goering Only Went To Switzerland To Shop.

ZURICH—(U.P.)—Frau Hermann Goering, wife of the Nazi reichsmarshel, was reported today to have returned to the German side of Lake Constance after a visit to Switzerland which she described as a shopping trip.

It was understood that Frau Goering and Frau Paul Joseph Goebbels, wife of the Nazi propaganda minister, were staying at the castle Marbach on the German shore of the lake.

300 Mexican Workers Ill of Food Poisoning.

GRANTS PASS, Ore. —(AP)— Three hundred Mexican hop pickers were stricken with food poisoning yesterday after eating lunch in the fields near here.

Dr. M. E. Corthell, who attended some of the victims, said he believed bacterial action in scrambled eggs, part of the lunches put up for the laborers by the War Food Administration, was the cause of the illness.

QUEBEC PARLEY SPOTLIGHTING WAR ON JAPAN

Major New Operations Against Enemy In Pacific Studied By FDR and Churchill.

BRACKEN GIVES HINTS

Complete Destruction of Our Enemies With Germany First Promised.

BULLETIN

QUEBEC — (U.P.) — President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill—while aware of Russian demands for a second front—were believed today to have decided to give air power its chance to crush Germany first and, in any event, to blast such a path of destruction that land armies may invade Europe with the fewest possible casualties.

(By Associated Press)

QUEBEC—The Quebec war conference, driving forward to advance the zero hour for invasion of the European continent, produced today a strong, official indication that tremendous new operations against Japan also were in the making.

Brendan Bracken, British minister of information, was the first high participant in the war councils to give any inkling of what was going on behind the guarded portals of Quebec's Citadel, where President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill are mapping strategy which may settle the fate of the world.

"These plans," Bracken told a press conference last night, "are to bomb and burn and ruthlessly destroy, in every way available to us, the people responsible for creating this war."

His words were sufficiently inclusive to embrace not only the foe in Europe but also Japan, and he unscored them by declaring that "it's all one war."

"I think the war is going very well indeed," the British cabinet member asserted, "but it will last a long time and be a very hard war.

"When we have rounded up Mr. Hitler, the whole might of the British empire will be given over to the task of dealing with the Japanese, who are a ruthless, savage people.

"We will not lay down our arms until we have completely conquered Japan. The war won't be over

County Sportsmen Oppose Shooting Deer With Arrows

While the proposed open deer season in Ohio next December wouldn't include the Richland county area, there was evidence today of growing opposition to the plan among county conservationists.

Gordon H. Ensminger, chairman of the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association, said members of the organization had expressed dissatisfaction at the plan to permit hunters to use bow and arrows, but he did not believe there was much opposition to the shooting of deer with guns that would kill the animals and not maim them.

A number of northeastern Ohio parks boards and conservation groups said today they anticipated

Allies Capture More Islands to South of Sicily

Naval Guns, Aerial Bombs Continue to Smash at Vital Rail System; Red Army Slows Down; Mosquito Bombers Smash Berlin.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles today virtually gave the signal for the coming Allied invasion of Italy when he declared that United Nations forces, in his belief, soon will occupy Italy as they have Sicily.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa—U. S. naval forces have seized the islands of Lipari and Stromboli to control the sea area between Sicily and lower Italy, headquarters announced today, as Allied air and sea power tore great new gaps in Italy's vital railway system.

Stupendous air assaults shattered the industrial and railway city of Foggia, across the peninsula from Naples and 20 miles inland from the Adriatic sea, in one of the heaviest raids of the Mediterranean war. Fortresses, Liberators, Wellingtons and their escorts knocked down 34 enemy fighters in battles there.

Occupation of volcanic Lipari and Stromboli Tuesday morning put the entire Aeolian island group in Allied hands. Stromboli is only 37 miles from Cape Vaticano on the Italian mainland, and Lipari is 35 miles northwest of Messina in Sicily.

British warships teamed with air power in the hammer blows to disrupt Italy's rail system—a key of Italian defense—by pumping tons of shells into Scalea, on the west coast of the Calabrian peninsula.

Wave upon wave of heavy British and American bombers concentrating upon Foggia struck industrial and communications areas in saturation raids typical of attacks that wrecked every important target in Sicily.

U. S. Liberators from the Middle East joined in the day and night attacks on the city, 160 miles southeast of Rome.

Medium bombers blasted at Sapri and Salerno, south of Naples, and fighter-bombers went after the important communications point at Catanzaro, on the sole of Italy's boot.

They shot down five more Axis fighters, and destruction of still another during the night brought the Allied bag for the period to 40. Seventeen Allied planes were lost during all activities.

British cruisers and destroyers steaming up the west coast of the Calabrian peninsula Tuesday night bombarded Scalea, some 26 miles south of Cape Palinuro where the railway runs close to the sea.

"Naval activity continues on both coasts of the Calabrian peninsula and on the eastern shore of the Straits of Messina," the naval communique added.

Great concentrations of anti-aircraft fire encountered by attacking Allied bombers and continued shelling from artillery posts indicated the Axis still was strongly entrenched around Reggio Calabria in southern Italy.

There was every indication the enemy would fight to the last ditch to hold the extreme tip of the Italian peninsula against the Allied armies massed along the Sicilian coast across Messina strait.

Shells wailed steadily across the strait as Axis 15-inch coastal

HINT: King's Broadcast to Sicily Omits Mention of War

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—King Vittorio Emanuele told Sicilians in a proclamation broadcast by the Rome radio today that the present isolation of Sicily from the rest of Italy "will not last for long" and he made no mention of continued prosecution of the war.

(A later broadcast by Rome radio indicated the king was trying to forestall a separatist movement rather than to imply that peace was in the offing.

(Quoting the newspaper Il Messaggero, it said rumors had reached Italy that the Sicilians were trying to set up their own government; declared that at the "present moment separatism is a crime against the mother country." Sicilians have long been at best lukewarm toward having mainland Italians as their chiefs of state.)

The broadcast of the unbelligerent proclamation was recorded by the Associated Press.

The king opened his message by recalling that Premier Pietro Badoglio and former Premier Vittorio Emanuele Orlando previously had addressed the Italian people.

"I have lived with you this terrible moment," he continued. "I have heard your voice. I have understood your sufferings.

"Italians of Sicily, your king is near to you.

"I have faith in a better future. I know that you are faithful to me and to my reigning house. We are now cut off one from the other, but this will not last for lo. . The future will bring reward for your sufferings."

Earlier, the Rome radio had accused the Allies of indiscriminately bombing Italian towns and said no official reply had been received by the Badoglio government's recent action in declaring Rome an open city.

ERASED: Signs of Fascism Rapidly Disappear From Sicily

(Editor's Note: Fascism, to the people of Sicily, meant nothing but tyranny and starvation while watching petty officials bask in luxury. Clark Lee, International News Service staff correspondent, reports in this dispatch from that conquered island. As a result, he discloses, even the outer signs and trappings of Fascism are being erased by the islanders, grateful to the Allies for bringing them liberation.)

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN SICILY—Fascism meant petty blackshirt tyranny to the average Sicilian. It meant their men were sent away to die in the deserts of Africa or the mountains of Ethiopia for an empire they never wanted and which never brought them a single gain.

This became apparent today in conversations I had with typical Sicilians; Italian subjects who expressed gratitude to the Americans and British for bringing them deliverance from the blackshirt regime.

And, as a result, they are obliterating every trace of Fascism as fast as they possibly can.

Mussolini kept these people half-starved to head off revolt, but at the same time he deprived them of the stamina and incentive to fight for their empire or homeland. Contrarily, the

City Employes Win Round In Pay Fight

Shultz Says Council Committee Will Renew Discussions on Boost In Wages, Talks With Workers.

Turned down last week in their request for pay increases, Mansfield city employes today had won re-consideration of their case by city council.

C. N. Shultz, chairman of the council unit committee named to study the pay boost request, said the committee would renew its study of the question of increases and he thought it would be a good idea to "go over it with the city employes' committee."

That's what the city workers asked in a letter which had been turned over to council today by Fire Capt. Frank R. Stahl, chairman of the committee representing the public employes. The workers' committee was excluded from the council committee session at which the decision to delay action on the increases was reached.

Stahl said some of the city workers who are in the lower income brackets are having difficulty getting along on their present salaries and the workers' committee would like to have council re-consider the salary increase request as soon as possible. Council's next regular meeting is Sept. 7.

Meanwhile, Shultz admitted that if the pay increases are granted they will have to come from 1943 surplus funds and whatever the city can save from its 1944 allocation by reducing other expenses.

The 1944 city budget request, asking for $4,130 less than was sought for this year, has already been submitted to the county budget commission.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe, member of the commission, said today that council could ask for more money for 1944, but the amount the city will receive from county tax sources is likely to be approximately the same as it received this year.

Shultz, as council spokesman

SPREADS TERROR

Pyromaniac Starts 3 Fires Within a Half Hour.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— A pyromaniac early today terrorized apartment dwellers in the Woodhill road-Parkview avenue section of Cleveland's east side by setting three fires in a half hour, routing 60 tenants and causing damage estimated at $75.

Fire Capt. Leo Pavik said the first fire broke out in the laundry bin of one apartment and sent smoke through the six-suite building.

In the west wing of the adjoining apartment old rugs stuffed into eight washing machines in the basement were blazing. Burning newspapers also were discovered by firemen in the same building, Captain Pavik said.

Fire wardens detained a 59 year-old painter as a suspect.

Benes To Discuss Treaty, Inspect Czech Troops.

LONDON —(U.P.)— Dr. Eduard Benes, president of the Czechoslovakian government-in-exile, will leave for Russia soon to discuss the possibility of a Soviet-Czech treaty and to inspect Czech military units, it was reported today.

The Czech government here believes a treaty with Russia is desirable, but Britain had opposed Benes' trip because officials felt it might endanger future relations with Poland.

SENT HIS TEETH

So Sergeant Didn't Bother To Go To Dental Examination.

LINCOLN, Neb.—(U.P.)—Sgt. Frank Lefevre didn't show up for dental examination. The other soldiers at the Lincoln air base were present. The master sergeant wanted to know where Lefevre was.

Another soldier handed the master sergeant a box and a note signed by Lefevre. The note said: "I'll not be needed, anyhow."

The box contained Lefevre's false teeth.

3-Day Blood Donor Period Gets Off to Successful Start

If the schedules for today and tomorrow at the Red Cross Mobile Blood Donor Unit proceed as smoothly as the Thursday schedule did, the county quota of blood for August will be easily reached, officials said today.

Most appointments were kept yesterday and donors who found it impossible to be there notified the Red Cross office beforehand so that their places could be filled.

In every respect the response this month has been better than previously, officials said. A higher percentage of the blood donor cards which are sent to volunteers was returned to the office.

The mobile unit was at the John Simpson Junior high school today from 10:45 a. m. to 2:45 p. m. It will be open the same hours tomorrow.

Blood donor cards for September will be ready for mailing soon. The unit will again be here for three days, Sept. 13, 14 and 15.

Says Engine Output Dropped After Senate Group Charges

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI—Major General Oliver P. Echols, assistant chief of air staff, Washington, testified today that production of the Wright Aeronautical corporation plant in nearby Lockland fell to one-sixth its former pace after release of Truman committee charges that defective engines were being turned out.

Echols, also head of the army air force procurement staff, said as a Truman senate investigating committee hearing got under way that the company management tried to blame the army for interfering with production by requiring a "too rigid inspection procedure" and an effort to get a high degree of interchangability in the engine parts.

Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich) asked "isn't it true that the company deliberately dropped production to justify to the public that they were correct and the army was wrong in its new inspection procedures?"

"I can't go that far," General Echols replied. "I feel a contributing cause was the attitude of certain people in the plant of endeavoring to justify themselves."

General Echols disclosed that the army had considered without reaching a decision, taking the plant away from Wright and

CHAPTER XXXII

"Pearl Harbor" had come and gone, bringing swift changes in national thinking and living. Christmas had come and gone and the damp, raw days of January and February.

Because she had little exercise these days Meegan got off the bus one night six blocks from the apartment house. The hint of early spring lifted her spirit. There was newness in spring, always . . . But there was newness about everything now, a keen awareness of danger, a new appreciation of a freedom heretofore indolently taken for granted and a sharp desire for hard work that stimulated the mind and body.

She wondered if anyone could be working harder than Toby. He was working seven days a week. He had been promoted. How Roy's quiet approval of him meant everything to him.

In a short while and in the people she saw she had seen startling changes. The changes were as startling to Van as to the old cobbler who had been repairing her shoes for as long as she could remember. For while Van's business had failed for the duration, the old cobbler's business had tripled. People could not buy Van's products now—but the public scarcity of leather had sent them to the cobbler's with their old shoes, heretofore discarded, to be mended. Van's former showrooms were closed but one had to wait in line at the old cobbler's whose worn and weary look had given way to the look of a successful and very busy man.

Sue and Van were together again though the circumstances of their coming together again could never be known. With no apology but rather with pride he had announced to her friends that Van had gone to work at the shipyard, that she had discharged the two maids and that she had invited two rooms to war workers. New people admitted into her life. Meegan had thought. . . And knowing Sue she had thought that there was nothing she liked more than the feeling of being capable and creative. How her capabilities and creativeness ran not to decorating rooms but to managing on a slim budget and doing a superlative job of it. But this new struggle she would be perfect, too, Meegan thought. For Sue was the same proud, unbending one who walked down Charles Street with her children and her husband and her dog. It was Sue who had always dominated her family scene. But it was Sue who held her family together during its critical time, whose strength had borrowed until recently he had lost the look of a whipped man. Her friends were saying the things about Sue now. When they wanted to speak of a woman who had made sacrifices uncomplainingly and whose patriotism was sound, they spoke of her.

Tonight would be a quiet evening at home, Meegan thought. There was no class to attend and no social function. She wondered how many soldiers and sailors and marines she had danced with this winter at parties arranged specially for them. They came from everywhere, lingered a short while and were gone. Several wrote to her. One boy from a Montana ranch wrote poetry to her from Cairo.

And always at those parties she looked vainly for Fayne. Even in the moving mass of uniforms she believed that if he had been there, she would have seen him. But she never saw him. As she read the newspapers, hoping to find his name in them, she had come to believe recently that he was out of the country. One night she dreamed that he was dead. Another night she dreamed that they were together. There were few hours in the day when he was out of her mind. She did not want him out of her mind. When he left, she always called him back.

Her mother greeted her as she came into the apartment.

"I had such a nice day, dear! Rica called for me and we drove out to Helen's farm. Really, Helen is marvelous, the things she does. They're going to have pigs next year and she said she'd give us a large ham. And of course they'll have quantities of fruit next summer. Helen works like a man. Roy doesn't have to think of the farm she manages so well . . . I told her you were looking much better and had gained five pounds."

"How are the children?" She slipped out of the camel hair coat and lifted the small brown hat from her hair. The brown wool jumper and the yellow sweater she wore had been a favorite winter costume.

"The healthiest children I've ever seen. Fat and rosy-cheeked. They're becoming quite fond of me."

They went into the dining room to dinner. For months Meegan had thought how fortunate it was that her mother did most of the talking and was so filled with the little events of her life she did not notice the sadness that lay heavily over Meegan. Nor was it any longer a sadness resulting from worry over money. The island house had been sold and the money invested in war bonds. Toby had paid back the money he had borrowed and Meegan had received an increase in her salary at the hospital. They were out of debt and living within their income at last.

But the sadness that lay heavily upon her came from the shame of making murderers of Toby and her friends and from the finality of her good-bye with Fayne. Because Clare was dead and he was free she had had to construct her thoughts of him anew and think of him unattached from Clare and marriage. He would be different now, she thought, a younger, gayer person. He had nothing to conceal, nothing to pretend and his loyalty would not be sorely tried. To know him now would be to know the real Fayne, the man he was before his marriage to Clare. At times the poison that had infected her throughout the summer seemed as nothing to the sorely tried loyalty of Fayne.

They were having coffee in the living room when the telephone rang and she went into the foyer to answer it. Adele usually called at this hour.

She said, "Hello," and waited for Adele's raucous, good natured voice.

But it did not come. No voice came to her ear for a minute.

Then, "Meegan?"

"Yes, this is Meegan."

"And this is Fayne . . ."

Forever after she knew how she looked at that moment because there was a mirror over the hall table that revealed her face as if suddenly lighted from within . . .

"Fayne?"

"Yes," he said briskly. "I'm calling from the station in Washington. My train leaves in a few minutes for Baltimore. I want you to meet it."

Brisk and forceful . . . She could see him . . . He was in uniform, he was always in uniform now, his fair head bent toward a telephone, his firmly cut mouth speaking briskly and forcefully over forty odd miles . . .

He would think her a fool if she cried. Besides, she wouldn't like the picture of herself in the mirror if she cried. She smiled and there was new vitality in her voice when she said, "Of course I'll meet it. It will be . . . awfully good to see you again."

He laughed quietly. "I'll forgive you for your understatement this time. It will be nothing short of wonderful to see you again. I don't know why I don't wait to see you to tell you how long I've waited to make this call . . ."

"I think I've been waiting for it."

"That's all I wanted to know. I'll see you very soon."

When she replaced the telephone, she saw her mother looking at her with lifted brows and parted lips.

"Who was that, dear?"

"That was Fayne Christopher. I'm going to meet his train."

"Oh! And I'm going to meet him at last! Oh,. I hope so!" She frowned then. "Meegan, is he . . . I don't want to pry . . ."

"And I don't want to keep it to myself any longer. I love him . . . and now I can say it and live it!"

"Where are you going?"

"To get my hat and coat."

"But aren't you going to change your dress and shoes. You're wearing your working clothes!"

She was putting on the small brown hat that sat back from the high wave of her fair hair when she turned and said, "He'll be wearing his working clothes."

THE END.

"The Authority on Authorities"

PRETTY SHABBY REWARD

Sometimes the most beautiful kind of play meets the shabbiest reward, in that it is only for the sake of limiting a foreordained loss. Just as fine work is done by declarers in hopeless contracts as in those which they manage to make. But it does not stand out so spectacularly, and often goes unnoticed by all except very keen students of what is being done. Superlative play in such a doomed cause, however, is one of the marks of a real bridge player.

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	4 NT	Pass	5 ♥
Pass	5 NT	Pass	6 ♥

You couldn't ask a better example of the importance of distribution. South had six top cards in clubs, but could get only three trick with them, also five in diamonds, but could score only three there. Additional little cards in either suit in declarer's or dummy's hand could have made the grand slam easy. As it was, however, only 11 tricks were in sight. There was a play for 12, but none whatever for 13 unless the defenders would revoke.

Winning the spade Q lead with the K, South took three high hearts, but they didn't break. Now he would have gone down two tricks if he hadn't figured out a play in spades which would limit the loss to one. Three clubs and three diamonds were played to strip out those suits and then the spade 5 was led. West came in with the 10, and—now for the nice little play in this deal—the spade 9 was played from dummy.

West had to play now from his J-7 into the A-8, so that South got the last two tricks. If on the throw-in play, the spade 6 had been played from dummy, and West returned the 7, the 9 could have won it in dummy, but then the heart 3 would have lost the final trick to East's J. If South had overtaken that 9 with his A, he then would have had to give up the 8 to West's J on the last trick. So the unblocking play of that 9 was the key to limiting the loss to down one.

Tomorrow's Problem.

How should South play for 5-Diamonds on this deal after West, who had made a spade overcall during the auction, leads the K of his suit?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Aug. 21.

While there are conflicting configurations in this day's lunar aspect yet there are excellent opportunities for success, happiness and many private satisfactions. The chief joys may be found in heart interests, social or artistic achievements or recognition, or other creative expression attracting attention of sudden and surprising force. However, there is a proclivity to undue extravagance, excess or turbulent demonstrations of temper which might negate the fullest measure of gratification and enjoyment.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is have excellent promise for success and happiness, with a surprising opportunity for a lucrative and uncommon expression of creative art or scientific invention. However, there are hints of some public or group lack of endorsement or cooperation, which a display of temper would but aggravate. Refrain from all sorts of excess and extravagance in word and deed. Romantic, social, domestic and affectional associations should culminate happily. Artistic or literary efforts are encouraged.

A child born on this day may have artistic or literary talents of real worth, being original and uncommon. It may also be musical. An inclination to impetuosity, extravagance and excesses should be given early discipline.

Childhood Fear Of Storms Can Be Averted

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

There's many a child, especially a young child, who is terrified during an electric storm. Some persons never outgrow this fear and suffer excruciatingly during thunder showers all their lives. In my special bulletin on "Fear," I discuss this matter at length along with other fears. It can be had without cost by writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it. But a few words here.

The infant may have a severe fright from a thunderclap while alone by night or day. It's the thunder rather than the flash which frightens him.

Plan always to be near the child awake or asleep during a thunderstorm, so you can hold and comfort him. It may help the tot over three or four at night, for you to get him to watch with you from the window during each flash to try to see as many trees, buildings and cars as you can. Should he be awake long, read his favorite story and sing his favorite lullaby. Be very generous with affection.

By day, when the tot is awake during the storm, keep him busy at his blocks, coloring, drawing or listening to you read. See that all adults present show no fear. While, of course, you should not laugh at fear, you also should take a matter-of-fact attitude.

Any child who is afraid of thunder will be benefited by being around other children who enjoy the storm.

As soon as your child gets instructions at school in general science, he will learn good reasons for certain precautions during storms. But some parents are able to get over these facts effectively without inspiring fears, at a still earlier age.

If you or another adult of the family should suffer excessively from fears during a thunderstorm, wear rubbers and stand in the middle of the room. It should be most helpful for the adult or child to watch a receding storm with some person who enjoys it as an artistic phenomenon.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"I'll do that, sir," Adams assured him and then Dicky was moving with his usual rapid stride to the front of the store, while I sipped my chocolate and Adams spoke reassuringly.

"It won't be a hard job, getting you in without anybody noticing you," he said. "Your father has everything planned down to a split second. You see, we know all of Milner's personal spies, and your father has planned it so that every one of them will be occupied with something they can't dodge until they're through. That leaves the coast clear for me to get you up to your suite. But we mustn't wait a second after we get the telephone. I'll pay for the chocolate now, and you'll be ready to go, won't you?"

The Call Comes.

"On the second," I assented, and he beckoned the attendant and paid him for the beverages. Then we waited for a time that seemed endless, but which really was but a few minutes before the attendant came back to our table.

"Is your name Adams?" he asked, and Adams rose even before the man answered his nod of assent.

"Telephone for you at the second booth," he said, and Adams paused only for an admonition to me: "Stay here till I come back, but be ready to go then."

I nodded in agreement, then waited tensely until I saw him coming toward me, when I rose and hurried to him. He put his hand beneath my elbow, and escorted me to the door.

It was less than five minutes before we drew up at the entrance of the building whose basement entrance we had used before, and which had a normally unused connection with the Lansfield basement.

Adams hurried me down to the basement of the building, then along the subterranean corridor to the connecting door. We saw but two men, both of whom were evidently prepared for our coming, and then we were in the service elevator, ascending rapidly toward my floor.

"If there's a signal for Mrs. Graham's floor," Adams instructed the elevator man, "don't stop there, but take us up to the next floor, and then go back, taking your time."

"Okay," the man said, and as there was a signal Adams and I alighted at the floor above mine. A maid was the only occupant of the floor, and Adams beckoned her into the "Exit" alcove from which the staircase went up and down.

"She's one of ours," he whispered to me, and when the maid had come up to him, he said in a low voice: "Remember, you haven't seen this lady, Mrs. Graham, this morning."

"I'll remember," she said briefly.

Sends Maid Ahead.

"Now go down stairs ahead of us," he said, "and see if the next hall is clear. If the maid is there, go over and get her around the corner on some pretext while I get Mrs. Graham into her own suite."

The maid turned and went quickly down the stairs and out of sight. In a moment she reappeared.

"All clear," she reported, and Adams guided me swiftly around to my own door, where I gave my own signaling knock.

Katharine opened it, and Adams, waiting only until I was safely inside, hurried away to obey my father's order about appearing at Milner's office.

"Am I glad to see you!" my kinswoman exclaimed. "Milner's been telephoning every quarter hour to see if you've awakened. I finally asked him not to telephone again, promising that I would have you telephone him when you wakened. What do you think about doing it now?"

"Nobody is to do anything until father comes up," I answered. "He will be here presently. Where's Dicky?"

"In the connecting suite," she replied. "He asked me to tell him when you arrived, but I think I'll get your hat and coat off first, and put you—where? In a chair? On the couch? You look all in."

"I'm perfectly all right," I assured her. "But I shall be glad to relax in a big chair. No, I distinctly do not wish to lie down."

"That's up to you, of course," she said, installing me in the most comfortable chair in the room. "I suppose there's no use asking you anything now."

"Not until father comes," I said. "He hasn't any idea what happened, except that everything went all right."

"That's enough to sustain life on," she said with a smile. "And now, I'll call Dicky."

U. S. AND JAPAN WILL EXCHANGE 1,500 INTERNEES

Civilians To Be Sent Home on Grispholm By Oct. 15, Welles Reveals.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The state department today announced that a new agreement has been reached with Japan for the early exchange of 1500 Americans interned by the enemy in the Far East.

The United States will exchange a like number of Japanese internees.

The transfer will be made by exchange vessel Gripsholm by Oct. 15.

Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles announced that the United States government has requested Japan to obtain safe conduct for the Gripsholm.

The exchange, second since Pearl Harbor, is scheduled to take place at Mormutao, Goa, Portuguese India, and the vessel is scheduled to stop enroute at Uruguay to pick up Japanese civilians in South America.

The exchange concerns civilian internees, it was explained, and not prisoners of war.

At the same time the war department announced that the date on which packages to be sent on the Gripsholm to prisoners of war and civilian internees in the Far East has been advanced from Sept. 15 to midnight of Aug. 27. Such packages must be in the hands of the provost marshal general in New York by midnight of Aug. 27 in order to catch the sailing date.

In announcing the exchange arrangement, the state department issued the following statement:

"The United States government has requested Japan to obtain from its Allies, and itself to grant, safe conduct for the exchange vessel Gripsholm and has good reason to hope that safe conduct for the vessel will be received in time to permit the forthcoming exchange to be made at Mormugoa, Goa, Portuguese India, by Oct. 15.

"As soon as additional details are available the state department will make a further announcement for the information of relatives and friends of those Americans who are expected to return from the Far East."

GRAIN REACHES GREECE

LONDON —(U.P.)— Radio Paris reported today that two Swedish ships loaded with grain sent by the International Red Cross to Athens, Greece, had arrived at the nearby port of Piraeus.

FEARS POST-WAR UNEMPLOYMENT

Federal Bureau Sees Trouble If Industry Hesitates on Re-conversion.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The United States may have an army of 12,000,000 unemployed within six months after the war if industry hesitates and delays the changeover to full-scale civilian production, the post-war division of the bureau of labor statistics stated today.

It said that at least 8,000,000 to 9,000,000 servicemen would be looking for peacetime jobs or going back to school, and that industrial demobilization would displace 6,000,000 men as a net minimum, not counting plant-to-plant transfers.

The division urged a policy of rapid industrial conversion, an adequate public works program to take up the slack, and "proper" financial support for workers and their families "at the time when it is temporary impossible to provide 100 per cent employment."

The report urged on business a policy of mass production of low cost goods rather than limited quantities of high priced merchandise, and said monopolistic restrictions of all kinds on production must be held in check.

It suggested that the armed forces be demobilized as slowly as possible, and said that continuation of price controls, high taxes and war bond sales might be necessary to prevent accumulated war savings from inducing disastrous inflation.

EX-RETAILER DOES HIS BEST TO KEEP FROM MAKING MONEY

(By United Press)

LONDON — For the first time in his life, Capt. Leo V. Dolan, a former Pittsburgh retailer, is trying to keep his business from making money.

Dolan is head of the army's department store, known officially as the Post Exchange, or "PX."

"It's awful hard not to make money here," Dolan explains. "We have to be careful all the time or else we start showing a profit. We do too much business. We have 6,500 officers shopping here and we do $140,000 worth of business every month."

He added that the store would do five times that volume of business if its wares were not rationed to the men.

The army Post Exchange is strictly a non-profit concern established to keep American troops in cigarettes, candy and other things that are difficult to obtain in English stores or not available at all.

British cigarets cost 48 cents a pack and most Americans don't like them. Cigarets are only one of some 95 items carried by PX, which looks like a combination country general store, city drug store and bargain basement.

It stocks cookies, razor blades, fountain pens, towels, cigars, sun glasses, nail polish, and lip stick and soap.

The cosmetics are supposed to be for army nurses and Red Cross girls but men with English girl friends come in and plead for nail polish to keep their brass buttons shiny or cold cream for their chapped hands. Many ask for more cigarets than their seven-pack weekly ration, presumably so that they can take care of tobacco-hungry British friends.

BURNS COST LIFE.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Burns received when her dress caught fire from a gas kitchen stove while she was preparing dinner today were blamed for the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Bentley, 86.

OWNERS TO GET BACK 5 MINES

Ickes Lists Ohio Property, Which Were Un-struck, For Early Return.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Ickes has listed five non-struck coal mines in Ohio, West Virginia and Alabama for return to private ownership.

This first step toward ending government possession and operation of the mines was expected to be announced today by the Office of War Information. Pending the official announcement by OWI, Ickes' coal mine administration declined to identify the mines or comment on the action.

Ickes has operated some 3,700 of the nation's major mining properties since May 1, when the first of three general strikes by John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers was called.

Prior to enactment over President Roosevelt's veto of the Smith-Connally anti-strike law, requiring return of government-seized property within 60 days after it has been restored to pre-strike "productive efficiency," a number of Illinois mines were returned to private control after the AFL-Progressive Mine Workers union, which held contracts with them, pledged that its members would not strike if the government gave up its control of the property.

GETS FINE, JAIL TERM IN LIQUOR, GAMBLING CASE

Defendant Sentenced To 40 Days; Judge Orders Dice Tables Destroyed.

James Henry Crouch, 63, colored, confessed operator of a bootleg establishment at 261½ North Main street, was sentenced to 40 days in the county jail and fined $200 in municipal court today after he pleaded guilty to charges of illegally possessing liquor and keeping and exhibiting gambling devices.

In addition to the sentence and fine, Judge H. H. Schettler told Crouch to provide security in the amount of $500 for his good behavior during the next year.

Crouch, who has been arrested at least 20 times in the past 25 years on charges of fraud, bootlegging and operating lewd shows, was taken into custody last Monday afternoon by police who said they found more than 30 bottles of liquor in his establishment.

Also confiscated were 43 dice, a game table, a money changer, and six decks of cards. Judge Schettler today ordered the gambling equipment destroyed by police.

Crouch got a 30-day sentence and a $100 fine for possessing contraband liquor and 10 days and $100 on the gambling charge.

He was represented in court by Attorney George W. Biddle who said police, whom he praised for their efficiency, arrested Crouch before he had a chance to realize any profit on the untaxed liquor which he had shipped here from St. Louis, Mo., in a heavily-padded trunk.

Crouch appealed to the court for leniency, saying that he had been in "a lot of trouble when I was younger, but I'm ready to go straight now if I can get another chance."

"It seems to me that you have had plenty of chances to do that," said Judge Schettler.

ONE BOUND OVER

Faces Grand Jury on Charge of Cutting To Wound.

One of two colored men arraigned in municipal court today on charges of cutting with intent to wound was held to the grand jury under $1,000 bond while the other's hearing was continued to next Monday morning at the request of his counsel, Atty. George W. Biddle.

Bound over to the grand jury was Melvin Perkins, 31, a railroad section worker, who confessed cutting Chester Porter, also colored, in the left cheek and neck last night during an altercation in a work car in the Pennsylvania yards at Oak street.

The case of Cleveland Fair, 47, of 271 North Franklin avenue, was continued. He was arrested Wednesday night by police and charged with cutting Fred Patterson, colored, on the head and neck. The attack occurred at 271 North Franklin avenue where both men roomed.

$91,000 STILL DUE IN TAXES

County treasurer Charles Payne must collect $91,000 today if real estate tax collections are to equal the $691,000 charge.

Today is the last day for county real estate owners to pay taxes for the last half of 1942 without being penalized an extra 10 per cent for late payment.

Following yesterday's collection of $20,333 the total collection stood at $600,255. Payne said he expects last minute payments, checks sent by mail and the amounts taken in by collectors in the county villages to finish out the remainder of the total charge.

NEWSPAPER WEEK SLOGAN

"A Free Press, a Free People —an Unbeatable Team" To Highlight Observance.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—"A free press and a free people—an unbeatable team," is the slogan adopted for this year's observance of National Newspaper week, Oct. 1 to 8, the National Newspaper Week committee has announced.

The committee is headed by Vernon T. Sanford of Oklahoma City, Okla.

"Since the newspaper profession is more intimately and directly concerned with the affairs of our 133,000,000 American citizens than perhaps any other one privately-owned institution," said Sanford, "the publishers, acting through their press associations, four years ago, set aside one week during the year in which they could unite for the promotion of a public relations program to better acquaint readers with their newspapers.

"It is hoped that through this year's observance of National Newspaper Week the newspapers may not only bring about a better understanding of the free press as a right of the people, but may also intensify appreciation of all our constitutionally guaranteed rights and privileges."

INSISTS DADS WILL BE CALLED

WMC Concedes Only Those in Non-Deferrable Jobs May Be Drafted First.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—War manpower commission spokesmen today saw a "strong possibility" the only pre-Pearl Harbor fathers to face induction under the October draft quota of about 312,000 would be those in non-deferrable jobs.

They repeated, however, that there had been no change in plans to begin on Oct. 1 the induction of the pre-war father class—those whose children were born before last Sept. 15.

The officials said they had absolutely no confirmation of rumors that there would be any reduction in the previously announced goal of 10,800,000 men and women in the armed forces by the end of 1943.

Instead, they said, there were indications the total might mount even higher, in view of figures released this week by Navy Secretary Knox who estimated the navy, coast guard and marines would have 2,861,000 in uniform by Jan. 1, while the army has set its sights on 8,200,000.

Chairman Fulmer (D-SC) of the house agriculture committee, predicting a serious food shortage this winter, announced today he would seek a compulsory "furlough of farm labor out of the army in the harvest season."

Declaring "tons and tons of food will not be harvested if we don't get labor to the farms," Fulmer said that "despite all the orders that have been publicized, they are still drafting farm labor, while thousands of bushels of vegetables are rotting on the ground."

SHERIFF CHECKS BELLVILLE THEFT

Sheriff Frank E. Robinson was today investigating the theft of a purse containing $100 at the Young dry goods store in Bellville Wednesday evening.

Mrs. R. B. Young, proprietor of the store and owner of the purse, said it was taken from her office in the rear of the store during the few minutes she left the room.

The purse was found Thursday morning in the alley at the rear of the building contents including a set of keys, trinkets, and nearly $100 were missing.

TWO INJURED

Hurt as Motorcycle and Car Meet In Collision.

Two persons suffered minor injuries early this morning when a motorcycle, driven by Edward J. Vrabel, 523 Lily street, collided with an automobile driven by James L. Stout, Lucas R. D. 1, on Route 42, four miles north of Mansfield.

According to state highway patrolmen, Stout attempted to make a left hand turn off the highway without signaling. The cycle struck the back end of the car.

Another motorcycle, driven by Theodore L. Au, Mansfield R. D. 5, was forced to leave the highway to avoid hitting the car.

Injured were Vrabel and Harper Au, a passenger on one of the motorcycles. Both suffered cuts and bruises and were treated by a Mansfield physician.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 20, 1943 — PAGE NINE

TELEPHONE 4251-6

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

WASHINGTON—In such discussions as those at Quebec and in the many others that must follow, President Roosevelt's influence would be stronger if clear American public sentiment indicated the main broad lines this nation desired to follow.

When congress returns after its current vacation among the people, it will be in a position to indicate through discussion and resolutions where the American people stand.

Clapper

A most welcome and constructive reform is being worked out now under the leadership of Senator Vandenberg so that many questions relating to foreign policy may be decided by a majority vote of both houses. In these times it is inviting disaster to make our decisions dependent upon a veto power exercised by one-third of the senate. That requirement has forced the executive to resort to devious methods of avoiding reference to congress at all.

Foreign policy not based on national self-interest is on weak ground. It loses strength also if based alone on presidential edict, arrived at in dead secret and reported by newspaper men working under military restrictions as at the battlefront.

A wise presidential policy will have more force at home and abroad if buttressed by clear evidence of active public support. We do not realize that in foreign countries people remember what happened to Wilson and wonder if it will happen again.

Under such conditions America cannot exert the influence that it should exert. It is not alone things that we might want to do. We also want to prevent others from making decisions that might be against our interests. For self-protection, we need to have our full strength behind our foreign policy.

One of the first questions to be answered is whether we want to use force to make the victory stick. In other words, do we want to compel Germany to disarm and stay disarmed? Do we want to forbid her from making tanks and airplanes, for instance? Do we want to use force in keeping Italy on the safe track? That is a fairly immediate question. How much force we shall use after the armistice is the central question to be decided before we can move on with peace and reconstruction.

Our side has been confident that right makes might. We have believed that he is thrice armed whose cause is just. We had high ethics. Yet while we disarmed, Japan fortified the Pacific islands. Britain went blissfully to sleep while Hitler built airplanes. Just a year ago the Axis almost broke through at Suez which might have made victory impossible for us. Our vast resources are being turned into military force that will win, but our indifference to force almost proved our downfall.

The surest way to make the victory mean nothing would be to fight and have our men killed in order to disarm the enemy and force him to surrender—and then permit him to begin rearming. But you will never prevent Germany or Japan from rearming by sitting at the wishing well with little Snow White. We will have to use force to prevent it. That means inspectors. That means bombing fleets ready to move in if there is any violation of disarmament restrictions. Are we ready to face that? We ought to say.

In such an argument I would strongly favor the side of force. We can disarm a nation and still allow economic and political freedom within the restrictions.

'MYSTERY' TIP INVESTIGATED IN TWO SLAYINGS

Slot Machine Connection In Case Hinted; Accused Girl Attends Funerals.

(By International News Service)

COVINGTON, Ky.—A mystery tip involving a possible gangland connection was investigated by Kentucky authorities today as Auburn-haired Jo Ann Kiger was permitted to attend the funeral of the father and brother she is accused of slaying.

Double services for Carl C. Kiger, 49, vice-mayor of Covington, and six-year-old Jerry Kiger were to be held this morning, with Jo Ann attending under guard. The mother, Jenny, 49, wounded by the same fusillade of 15 revolver bullets which killed her husband and son, reiterated her belief in her daughter's innocence from her hospital bed

"Jo Ann did not do it," she said positively.

Meanwhile, Covington Police Chief Al Schild said that he had been informed that three men were overheard talking of a $1,400 "payoff" for the protection of slot machine operators the night before Kiger was slain. That amount of money reportedly was found in the summer home where the slayings occurred.

Since the slayings Jo Ann, who will be 17 tomorrow, has maintained that her father and brother were slain by an intruder, and that the only shots she fired were at the prowler. Authorities admitted that they could find no motive for the slaying in Jo Ann's background.

"I did not fire the shots that killed my father and brother," the schoolgirl said. "I thought we were all going to be killed. There was a man in that room."

Police indicated they might ask Jo Ann to re-enact her role the night of the tragedy, but Sawyer Smith, her attorney, declared that he would oppose any such move

The girl will be given a preliminary hearing Tuesday. One theory advanced was that she may have slain her father and brother during a nightmare.

Mrs. Kiger was quoted in one report as saying immediately after the slayings: "Jo Ann, did you try to kill daddy in a nightmare?"

"Night terror is the word for it, not nightmare," said Smith "I know nothing of that report."

OPA CLAIMS IT GAINS IN BLACK MARKET BATTLE

'Policing Consumers' Puts Crimp In Illegal Food Sales, Agency Declares.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The OPA disclosed today that rapid progress is being made in combatting nation-wide black markets in food and added that 120,000 "policing consumers" are putting a crimp in illegal food sales.

In a round-up on the nation's black market situation, an OPA spokesman revealed that the agency's 2,400 official investigators are being bolstered by 120,000 war price and ration boards "price panel assistants."

That means, the spokesman pointed out, that there will be one civilian consumer to check on every five of the nation's 600,000 retail food stores to see that prices are kept within government ceilings.

Representing a cross section of the various income and standard of living groups, these price panel assistants investigate consumer complaints and report failures of grocers to adhere to the OPA ceiling orders. Now it is possible, said the OPA spokesman, for a complaining consumer to deal quickly with "out of line" merchants by contacting his local ration board instead of being forced to take court action and sue for triple damages—a long and drawn out process.

Black marketing of meat, OPA admitted, remains "spotty," although violations are expected to be straightened out "very shortly" when the new price panels get into action. Thousands of court actions have been taken against black market meat dealers and the OPA has been "gratifyingly" upheld by the courts, the spokesman said.

Working closely with OPA enforcement officers, he continued, is the Department of Justice, U. S. district attorneys and U. S. marshals, as well as the secret service.

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK—President Roosevelt, in his recent report on the war, gave certain assurances to the men and women of the armed forces and the men of the merchant marine as to the preferences and benefits which they will receive when they come home. This was just a white chip to open the pot, so to speak, and as the boys begin to raise around the table the betting will get brisker and rougher. By this time next year, the candidates will be tossing IOU's into the middle, couched in figures like the score by innings, all drawn against the future, including the future of the very people who are on the receiving end of the promises.

Pegler

This is all pretty thin, however, because everybody knows that when this is over and the lads and ladies come home, they will not be in a mood to ask or receive. They will just take over and take it because this time there are so many of them that no candidate or party will be able to stand them off. A discharge bounty or bonus of $1000 for all hands will be easy promising because, after all, that would run to only 10 billion dollars, which used to be reckoned as a fairly sizable pile but isn't much now by comparison with the bill for the war and the war on want which preceded it. If we are going to send groceries and food and machinery to the hundreds of millions of ex-enemies and ex-subjects of the ex-enemies (as we probably aren't on any such scale as we are now leading these people to expect) 10 billions of even 50 billions more added onto the bill, to provide a bounty or bonus of $5000 each, will not intimidate people who will then be asking "What about me?"

But the really honest candidate, if we have one next year, will be the man who speaks up to the veterans in somewhat the same mood and vein in which Winston Churchill laid it down to the people of Britain when he took over and the Nazi across the channel was drowning from the effects of his big meal on the continent instead of plunging into the water in pursuit of the British.

The honest candidate would say that from war the veterans must expect to turn to hard, steady work and a standard of living considerably below our old one, because when it is over this country will be just about as clean stripped of things that people need as the leanest store in town today. He would say that, yes, a fellow would rate a little lay-off and some parades and ceremonies but that the recovery and rebuilding will call for hard work, starting almost immediately and continuing without prospect of any let-up for years and years. And he would promise them years of extremely heavy taxes, too, and point out that because there will be so very many veterans this time the rest of the people, most of whom will be either definitely old or within a few birthdays of the downhill slope will be unable to tote the load and won't be here to tote it more than a few years, anyway.

That would be a hell of a way for a candidate to speak to a block of votes which will run this country after the war, so probably no candidate will take this line and the promising about the brave new world of the future will be unconfined. And I have no confidence that the veterans will want to reclaim entirely the old freedoms at home, which many of them (the younger ones) never knew anyway except by hearsay, and break ranks and have done with regimentation in their civilian life.

True, they will not be very patient about questionnaires and forms but if it is put to them that by filling out the blanks and giving certain information and complying with certain restrictive regulations saved over from the war, they stand to get benefits in money or tax-exemption or preferential status in government jobs, they will be strongly tempted to go along and to toot for more and more government jobs.

To be sure the veterans will want work because work is the human way of life and the idleness was a curse equal to the poverty in the long depression. But what chance has a candidate who says, "I promise you only work and taxes to pay for the shells you shot away" against one who promises cash awards, tax exemption and security?

DISCUSS FAIR

Members of Junior Board Set Up Rules For Exhibit.

Plans for the Richland county junior fair, held for the first time this year as a separate event, were discussed last night at the meeting of the junior fair board

A one-day event, the fair will be held Sept. 16 at the county fairgrounds on Springmill street. Exhibits from the granges, schools, 4-H clubs, and vocational agriculture departments will be included.

Due to the prevalence of hog cholera this year the board ruled that all hogs exhibited must be vaccinated against cholrea

It was decided that half of each premium award will be made in war stamps and the remainder in money.

Richland county, like other counties over the state, decided to have a fair this year in spite of war conditions. No fair was held last year and prior to that the junior fair was included in the general county fair.

Members of the fair board are Clark Stahl of Butler, president; Percy Crunkilton of Butler, vice-president, Jay Rinehart of Galion, secretary and George Ganyard, county extension agent.

EIGHT BURIED IN PLANT DEBRIS

Three Known Dead, 10 Hurt In Explosion and Fire at Jersey War Factory.

(By Associated Press)

KEARNY, N. J. — A mass of rubble hid the fate today of at least eight persons believed buried in the ruins of a three-story brick and concrete building at the Congoleum-Nairn, Inc., plant after an explosion and fire which left three dead and 10 others injured, eight critically.

Fire Chief Charles Burnett of Newark said steamshovels would be used in the search of the blackened, smoking heaps of debris.

The blast late yesterday afternoon rocked a 10-mile area in the heart of war-busy northern New Jersey and broke windows in homes and stores within a mile radius of the sprawling linoleum products plant on the banks of the Passaic river.

Fire which sprouted out from the blasted No. 12 building wrecked two other structures before the flames were brought under control last night.

"The building just blew skyward in a cloud of wreckage and then fell back to the earth in pieces," was one worker's description of the blast.

A spokesman for the company said a check of workers' homes showed eight persons missing but other sources indicated the toll might rise much higher

Up and Down THE STREET

Beans or bullets it doesn't seem to make much difference these days. They are both exploding Latest victim of a bean bombardment is P. S. Carroll who arrived this morning at the county commissioners' office swathed in bandages and covered with blisters, while he was tightening the lids on jars of hot out of the oven (a job a wife usually gives her husband) one of the jars blew its lid off raining beans and scalding water over Carroll and his wife. Now he can join the increasing ranks of those who have had just such an experience or know someone who has. Bean explosions seem to be replacing operations as a topic of conversation probably because more people are canning and are interested in canning.

While looking through an old magazine, Miss Lois MacKeller, city librarian, found something that could have happened only in the days B.P.H. (before Pearl Harbor). In the April 1931 issue of "School Life," there was an article called "Japan Offers Courses for Foreigners." The article stated that "seventy-five lectures especially arranged for Americans and other visitors from abroad will be offered in a three-week course at the second summer college of Oriental culture at the Imperial university of Tokyo, beginning July 6, 1931."

GIVES FARMERS DOLE WARNING

Try To Solve Own Problems, Farm Bureau Chief Tells Southern Ohioans.

(By Associated Press)

BATAVIA—Murray D. Lincoln, executive secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau, urged 5,000 southwestern Ohio farm people yesterday to try to work out their own problems rather than expect the government to do it for them.

Lincoln told a farmers' victory rally at the Clermont county fairgrounds in nearby Owensville, "when you ask the government to do something for you, you put the government in a position to do something to you."

"In the past," he said, "we have been too anxious to get a dole rather than solve our own problems. It's not wise to blame the government for the present farm situation. We ought to blame ourselves for not taking action ourselves 15 or 20 years ago."

He urged establishment of co-operatives as "tools to fashion our own destines."

Predicting that labor unions would turn to co-operatives, he said, "then farmers can deal direct with urban working people and go around the monopolies in milk, packing, and so forth."

Lincoln, a delegate to the recent international food conference, said the United States would provide technical leadership for other countries after the war.

"We won't put a quart of milk on every hottentot's doorstep," Lincoln said, "but we'll help him produce it for himself."

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Bill Snypp, who snips Sport Snacks for the Lima News, and who used to be secretary and statistician for the Ohio State league, blithely reports that three O. S. loop graduates are doing all right for themselves these days in the Class A Eastern league.

And he lists these all right doers as Ollie Byers, Mansfield pitcher, Gene Woodling, Mansfield outfielder, and Ed Zipay, former Tiffin Mud Hen.

Which is very nice, except that Ollie Byers never pitched for Mansfield. Chuck Byers did, and he's been in the army since way last winter. So we'll skip the Eastern league Byers if you don't mind.

Woodling, according to the latest Sporting News, is leading the Eastern league in batting with a mark of .337, three points over Frank Genovese of Scranton. Woodling is with Wilkes-Barre, another Cleveland Indian farm.

Zipay leads the league in runs batted in with 70, and recently hit safely in 17 straight games.

If Woodling continues his present pace, he'll have the distinction of having won the batting championship of three leagues.

* * *

Gene paced the Ohio State league with Mansfield in 1940 with the high mark of .398. Playing with Flint in 1941 he won the batting crown of the Michigan State with another fancy average of .394.

Woodling played in the wheelchair league last season, a broken leg forcing him out of diamond action.

But he's thrown away the crutches this year, and is going to town in customary style. Which may lead people to wonder why the Indians took Pat Seerey from Wilkes-Barre, and left Woodling.

Snypp recalls that Woodling led the Ohio State league the year after another Mansfield outfielder, Hank Edwards, now with the Cleveland Indians, led the circuit.

And, says Snypp, "Edwards was not in Woodling's class as a fielder, nor was he as fast as Gene when they played in the Ohio loop. Edwards, however, hit for distance, and still does, occasionally.

"Woodling, still a youngster, is definitely a major league prospect if he has shaken off all semblance of the broken leg."

Mr. Woodling
Makes the wood ring.

Ex-Brave Steve Gromek, who has won 13 games and lost 10 for Baltimore, is out of action for at least ten days as the result of a valiant fielding effort.

A drive by Red Barnhart of Montreal all but wrecked Steve's pitching hand. Gromek retrieved the ball and tossed out Barnhart for the final out of a 2-1 victory.

Gromek and Eddie Klieman, the hurler claimed by the Indians from Baltimore, are the real work horses of the International league. Klieman, who has won 19 games and lost seven, leads the league in innings pitched with 219, and Gromek is next with 211.

Double Header Chase Scheduled

Second annual "double header" coon chase of the Richland County Fish and Game association will be held tomorrow night and Sunday.

* * *

The Saturday night event is scheduled at 9 o'clock at the Lucas Beetle club grounds five miles east of Mansfield off Route 39. The chase will pay 100 per cent on an entry fee of $3, with $7 going to first tree and first line dog in each heat.

* * *

Balance of th entry money will be paid in the final chase Sunday at the Raymond Fulk farm, eight miles northeast of Mansfield off state Route 545. This chase is a guaranteed $200 final with an entry fee of $4. Last year's double-header was a big success, with 200 dogs entered. Lunch and refreshments will be served at both chases.

Athletics Drop 13 Straight

Fans Merely Yawn Over Failings of Mackmen.

By JUDSON BAILY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

LOSING streaks cause excitement, apparently, in proportion to who is doing the losing.

When the Brooklyn Dodgers dropped ten in a row recently the frantic Flatbush fans wanted to run Branch Rickey into the Gowanus canal and when the Philadelphia Phillies tossed off 17 out of 27 Stanley Raymond (Bucky) Harris, a manager of proven ability, was fired.

But the Philadelphia Athletics now have lost 13 consecutive games and 19 of their last 22 and all the attention they are getting is a broad yawn.

* * *

One reason for this, of course, is that losing streaks for the Athletics are as common as ants at a picnic.

Mostly, however, the calm reaction to consistent losing by the A's is in deference to Connie Mack, the grand old man of baseball. Every other major league team is considered the community property of the fans.

The A's are the exception. They belong to Mr. Mack and whether they finish first or last, nobody is going to squawk. The important thing to the fans is that the 80-year-old patriach continue waggling that famous scorecard.

The A's latest loss was another shutout 4-0 on four-hit pitching by Dennis Galehouse of the St. Louis Browns last night.

At the top of the American league the New York Yankees squeezed back into the victory column with a 2-1 thirteen-inning decision over the Cleveland Indians in a night game.

The defeat dropped Cleveland back into a tie for third place as Washington whipped the Chicago White Sox 4-3.

Detroit divided a double-header with the Boston Red Sox, losing the first 4-3 through Joe Cronin's two-run pinch double and winning the second 10-0 on Virgil Trucks' four hit hurling and the hitting of Rudy York, who collected his 24th homer and batted in six runs.

* * *

In the National league the St. Louis Cardinals were upset by the Philadelphia Phillies 6-5.

Two home runs by Jim Russell and one by Vince DiMaggio, his 14th, accounted for seven runs as the Pittsburgh Pirates plastered the New York Giants 8-1.

Curt Davis held the Chicago Cubs to eight hits and scoreless after Bill Nicholson hit a two-run homer in the first inning to give Brooklyn a 9-2 triumph over Chicago.

Cincinnati clustered three runs in the sixth to beat the Boston Braves 7-5.

Westies Reach Tourney Finals

Play Lorain Tonight For District Title.

Mansfield Westinghouse plays Lorain Carek Meats for the district softball championship tonight at 8.30 at Oberlin.

Westies went into the finals of the Oberlin tournament last night with a 12-1 victory over Elyria, aided by the sloppy play of the opposing club.

Wednesday night the Mansfield club romped to a 10-1 win over Oberlin with Harry Ross starring at the plate with four hits in as many times up. Ross came up with a twisted knee last night and is out of the tournament.

* * *

The Lorain team defeated the Westies 1-0 earlier in the season at Lorain, and is strengthened by the addition of two players for tonight's game.

CARBETTA SCORES KAYO IN AKRON SHOW

Paul Carbetta, Mansfield featherweight boxer, took a bout on short notice last night, and gave away nine pounds to Jackie Evans of Pittsburgh, then proceded to knock out Evans in one minute and 15 seconds of the third round of a scheduled six-heater at Akron.

Carbetta had Evans down for counts of nine and five in the second. Carbetta weighed 117, Evans 126. They were on the preliminary card of the Lloyd Marshall-Wild Bill McDowell show at Akron armory. Marshall won by a knockout in the sixth.

Old Olympic Feud Flares

Stella Walsh and Helen Stephens Hurl Defies.

By WALTER BYERS

ST. LOUIS—(U.P.)—Helen Stephens, almost forgotten star of the 1936 Olympics whose record-breaking performances ranked her as the nation's outstanding woman athletes of that era, announced today she was seriously considering a come-back "just to show Stella Walsh I can still beat her."

According to Miss Stephens, she was satisfied to stand by her laurels until last Sunday when her enduring and bitter rival, Miss Walsh (or Walsiewicz) of Cleveland, O., equalled Miss Stephens' record for the 100 meters and scored 30 points in the National A.A.U. women's championships. For 32-year-old Miss Walsh it marked a great comeback at an age when both men and women runners are content to give up the chase, but for Miss Stephens it was like stepping on some toes.

Just recently Stella was quoted as saying she could beat Helen any time, any place with "my arms tied behind me," something Miss Walsh has been unable to do five different times with her arms swinging free. The Fulton, Mo., girl ignored the challenge until Sunday when Stella picked up some backers with her amazing performance, and so today Helen stated she "wished a meeting could be arranged and if necessary we both can run with our arms tied behind."

Miss Stephens, now an employe of the Curtiss-Wright corporation here, removed herself from the amateur track picture in 1937 when she turned professional. Before this time, during the 1935 and 1936 seasons, Helen and Stella carried on one of the hottest rivalries ever wired for sound.

Miss Walsh, a 1932 Olympic sprint champion, first met up with the "Fulton Flash" in 1935 when Miss Stephens, 17-years-old and running in sneakers, knocked the queen from her throne. After the race, Helen asked, "who is Stella Walsh?" inferring that it was all a fluke. Miss Walsh came back with "Miss Stephens is just a green kid."

With the '36 Olympics drawing close, promoters attempted to arrange matches between the two and twice Miss Walsh was forced to default because of "graduation exams" at Notre Dame academy. Stella predicted, however, that "I'll beat her at the Olympics."

* * *

Stella didn't catch the Missouri girl at any time during the Olympics, but watched her set an Olympics world record of 11:5 seconds for the 100 meters. Then they raced several times in Germany, the last encounter being at Wuppertul, and Miss Stephens returned to the United States undefeated in anything from 50 to 200 meters.

Now Miss Stephens would like to take her rival on once more. At present she is investigating a belief the A.A.U. will take professionals back into the fold after five years of inactivity.

Champions Win Series Opener

Maple Lake softballers, champions of the Parks Association league, took the opening game of the three-game series with the league all-stars yesterday, 4-2, breaking a tie with two runs in the seventh.

Hits were evenly divided, Bob Regula of Maple and Ken Windsor of the stars each turning in a five-hitter. But Regula gave only two bases on balls, while Windsor dished out nine. Regula fanned 11 Windsor 14.

NEW YORK — As the baseball season turns the August corner and rolls into the final month, owners, managers, coaches and players are breathing a lot easier than they did earlier this year.

Business hasn't been too tough. The war didn't take too many of the games' stars. The sport escaped the non-essential draft jobs list, and things are looking up for next year.

It wasn't so many moons ago that pessimists were wailing like banshees that baseball would never last until Labor day. They moaned that the baseball fan wouldn't be interested in the quality of the game this year; that he would be too busy in war jobs, or victory gardens; or that he would prefer to go out see the geegees gallop.

As it turned out, it was a lot of idle chatter. There was a slight decline in attendance early in the season, but that was due more to the weather than anything else. Some of the teams will lose money, to be sure, but try to name a year when one or more clubs didn't use red ink in their books.

As a matter of fact, the baseball fans have been coming back in such droves—if they were really missing earlier in the season—that attendance records in several cities are even surpassing last year's figures. The Browns, Athletics and Phillies have been drawing better than they have for years.

With their problems for this year fairly well settled, outside of the world series—and the Yankees and Cardinals will take care of that—baseball owners are already making plans for next year. These plans include a return to southern training grounds.

If you talked to a baseball team owner a few months ago about going back down south to train, he would have slipped silently away with a faint sh-h-h on his lips. They were given to understand that it was against the government's wishes, and they didn't want to do anything that would rile Uncle Sam.

Along around time for the All-Star game, word got about that the government had never said that the majors couldn't train in Florida last spring. Then the magnates woke up to the fact that it wasn't any ODT order that had deprived the teams of a trip south and loss of revenue, but a voluntary suggestion by Judge Landis.

* * *

The Office of Defense Transportation simply asked that baseball reduce its transportation and cut out some of the exhibition games. It was then that the high commissioner solemnly made his patriotic gesture and said that there would be no spring training south of the Potomic or the Ohio in 1943.

Recently the suggestion was made to Connie Mack that the big league teams approach the army and navy to see if arrangements could be made to go back south and have each team train at a service base.

Connie jumped into action immediately. "It's the best idea I've heard in a long time," enthused the venerable A's leader. "It's the salvation for baseball next year! I'm going to take it up with the directors at their next meeting.

In the meantime, Al Lang, the St. Petersburg tub thumper, began sounding out opinion among baseball men and government figures. And Lang has been given to understand by a government official that if baseball makes application to Washington through proper channels it will be given a hearing on the matter of training and the transportation problems involved.

Says Long: "I think that if baseball presents its case in Washington with emphasis on the recreational value that big league teams training in Florida or other southern sections would have on the soldiers in military camps, its request will be granted."

Yes sir, things are looking up for baseball next year. The next move is up to Judge Landis.

Slugger Shied At Dead Ball

Nicholson Admits It Had Him Worried.

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— The Chicago Cubs once painted a section of the Wrigley Field bleachers a seal brown to sharpen Bill Nicholson's batting eye—not knowing that Big Bill is color blind.

Neither that elaborate misapplication of pigment nor the 1940 slump that inspired it perturbed the soft-spoken Maryland farmer. In fact, none of the game's vexations ever swerved the brawny outfielder from his even tenor—until the advent of the "dead ball" early this season.

Tough Nicholson now leads the majors in runs batted in, 90, and tops the National league in homers, 18, he still holds a mental wake whenever he thinks of the lifeless pellet. It proved such a handicap to the Cubs clean-up hitter during its few weeks of use that he felt sure he was the man for whom the hell was about to toll.

On May 27th, the Cubs' clean-up hitter and "best player" had driven in only 10 runs in 122 trips to the plate, and the club was floundering in last place. His batting improvement since then has been partially responsible for Chicago's rise to fifth place and their current ambitions of joining the other three western clubs in the first division—at the expense of the Dodgers.

Although the Cubs were temporarily stymied in their pursuit of the Dodgers by yesterday's 9-2 defeat at Brooklyn, Nicholson drive out his 18th homer, with a mate aboard, bringing his runs-batted-in total to 90. This total—better by six than that of his nearest major league rival, Nick Etten of the Yanks—reflects the effectiveness of Nicholson's wand work more vividly than his batting average of .304.

Chatting at his hotel last night, brown-haired Bill said the pitcher who caused him most trouble this season was Max Lanier, St. Louis southpaw. Bill, a left-handed hitter, said: "I guess it's Lanier's short arms that bother me. I can't rate the speed of his pitch like I can on most long-armed fellows."

* * *

The Maryland mace-wielder might have been an officer in the navy now were it not for his color-blindness. After finishing high schol at Chestertown, Md., nine years ago, he had an appointment to the naval academy at Annapolis. But the examining physicians said "ixnay" when his eye scouldn't distinguish red from green.

"I may be color blind," Nicholson concluded, "but I certainly saw red when they brought in that dead ball this spring."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By SID FEDER

(Pinch-hitting for Hugh Fullerton)

NEW YORK—(AP)—Latest tip is it'll be a one-trip world series this fall . . . first three games in Yankee stadium, next four (or less) in St. Loo . . . Ol' Jedge Landis is giving all questioners the mummy-dummy routine, however . . . Fritzie Zivic, who took the welterweight title from Henry Armstrong, will take Hennery's tip and retire at the end of the year . . . Great Lakes footballers already have had three games cancelled by colleges quitting for the duration . . . or, as Joe, the shoeshine boy put it when a pal asked how business was: "busines I ain't worried about; I just want this duration to get over" . . .

BONUS $100 PER WIN.

Bill Cox doesn't exactly know
What to do about Schoolboy Rowe.
A C-note a win is really dough,
But if Rowe stops, the Phils'll sink low.
So Bill's a wonderin' high and low,
Should Rowe throw, or should Rowe whoa?

* * *

The word is that Bill Helis, the New Orleans oil and hoss hot-shot, is tossing $350,000 into that syndicate to buy Suffolk Downs racetrack . . . if the army doesn't have the premises, and the war's still on, don't be surprised if some club does its training next spring in Atlantic City's auditorium—which is so big they've played college football games there.

* * *

Cy Kritzer, Buffalo (N. Y.) Evening News: the Jovial Mr. James Aloysius (Wish) Egan, who scouts exclusively for the Detroit Tigers, was asked, "why are so many normally good ball players hitting far below their usual averages, and why is there such a scarcity of .300 hitters?" . . . Egan thinks the answer is on the front page instead of the sports pages: "For one thing, with all this labor trouble, strikes and walkouts, there is a different atmosphere in the dressing room of a ball club. There's a shortage of labor and a shortage of ball players. Players know today you can't replace them. They know there is no youngster down on the farm to come up. They have no competition to keep them on their toes." (And that, chums, is a mouthful—and a half).

Indians Lose to Yanks In 13 Inning Battle

Game Delayed Hour and Twenty Minutes When Lights Go Out.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—In a game delayed an hour and 20 minutes because of power failure, the New York Yankees early today edged the Cleveland Indians in a 13-inning contest, 2 to 1, thus virtually eliminating Indian hopes of making a race out of the American league pennant scramble.

The night game ended at 12:30 a. m., with most of the 36,507 fans still hoping for a miracle to enable their favorites to crash through to the pay-off window. The loss put the Indians back in a third-place tie with Detroit, 10 full games behind the league-leading Yanks and a game behind second-place Washington.

But for a loused-up run-down play in the ninth inning, rookie Allie Reynolds would have had his second three-hit shutout over the Yanks. The largest Cleveland crowd of the season saw Reynolds hold the Bombers to two hits in the first eight innings.

* * *

Bud Metheny, with one out in the ninth, doubled and when Bill Johnson sent a tap to the box, Reynolds apparently had Metheny trapped off second. However, Reynolds, chasing Metheny back toward second, threw the ball too soon and the Yankee right fielder turned and raced for third. Although he was out on Boudreau's toss to Russ Peters, the delay gave Johnson time to reach second.

Then, Charlie Keller singled to center, scoring Johnson with the tying run.

Joe Gordon's daring base running enabled the Yankees to win in the 13th. The Yankee second baseman led off with a double and then advanced to third on a short fly to Oris Hockett in left-center.

Rollie Hemsley, batting for Ernie Bonham, the Yankee pitcher, scored Gordon with a long fly to Hockett. Charlie Wensloff took care of the Indians in their half of the 13th.

* * *

Cleveland got its lone run in the sixth when Hockett singled, took second on a sacrifice and scored on a single by Buddy Rosar. In all, the Indians collected eight hits while the New Yorkers got six.

The Indians and Yankees were to resume their series this afternoon. Either Jim Bagby or Vernon Kennedy was to hurl for Cleveland with Atley Donald the likely New York pitcher.

BEAT BRAVES

BOSTON — (AP) — Cincinnati's Reds, suddenly discovering they can lick the Boston Braves, go in for that again today in their last-half drive to make the National league race look tight.

Johnny Vander Meer is Manager Bill. McKechnie's choice for the day's pitching, against Al Javery.

Yesterday's 7-5 victory was the Reds' fourth of the season over Boston and it kept them a half game ahead of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The game went to the credit of Lefty Clyde Shoun, who relieved Ray Starr in the fifth and held the Braves to one run the rest of the way. For him it was his tenth win of the year, all in relief work.

* * *

The Braves had a 4-3 lead, partly composed of a two-run homer by Butch Nieman, when Shoun came in. The Reds clinched the game in the sixth with three runs on a single, a pass, a balk, an error, and Ray Mueller's triple, and added their final run in the eighth when Steve Mesner singled and Mueller doubled.

Nelson Worries As Putts Drop

Favored To Win Open Golf Tournament.

By TOMMY DEVINE

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Byron Nelson, the title-collecting Toledo, O., star, today went into the opening round of the victory national open golf tournament a worried favorite.

As Nelson started the 72 hole medal play test he was perturbed by the fact he may have brought his game to a peak too quickly. He voiced the complaint yesterday at the end of the 36 hole pro-amateur event which served as a competitive tune-up for the tournament.

Nelson and his partner, Don Heppes of Chicago, fired best balls of 67-67—134 to finish in a three-way time for fourth place in the pro-amateur. The event was won by the combination of Ammy Byrd of Philadelphia and Bob Cochran of St. Louis with on aggregate of 131 strokes. Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Philadelphia and Him McHale, an army sergeant from Baltimore, Md., were a stroke back with 132 and in third place were Mike Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., and Jim Frisina of Taylorville, Ill., with 133.

On the outgoing nine of both rounds Nelson and his partner had sizzling 32's, four strokes under par. A torrid putting blade in Nelson's masterful hands accounted for the card.

* * *

"The way they were dropping has me worried," the transplanted Texan said in the locker-room afterwards. "I don't like to play so well the day before a big tournament. I was ramming in putts regularly from 10 to 20 feet. Those are the kind I couldn't buy last month when I needed them in the $10,000 all-American open."

Nelson was having his first competitive look at the Beverly country club course in 12 years. Back in 1931, as a 19-year-old youngster fresh out of high school, he came to Beverly for the National Amateur tournament and missed by a stroke of making for the qualifying grade.

* * *

"I had 158 strokes for the 36 holes then," Nelson recalled, "and I thought this surely must be the toughest golf course ever built. It didn't look quite so tough yesterday however."

While Nelson is the championship choice the invitational field of 31 other professionals and nine amateur stars is crowded with talented contenders.

In winning yesterday's tune-up, Byrd demonstrated a liking for Beverly's twisting 6611 yards. In contrast to his play earlier in the campaign the former New York Yankee outfielder had his tee shots under control. When straight with his drives, Byrd always figures to be a trouble-maker.

The open contestants will play 18 holes today and tomorrow with 36 holes crowded into the final day Sunday.

CLOSE EARLY

STEUBENVILLE—(AP)—The inaugural race meet at Ft. Steuben's new half-mile track ended yesterday, two days ahead of schedule. Officials of the Ft. Steuben Jockey club said a conflict of dates with nearby Wheeling Downs, which opened its autumn meet yesterday, made it impossible to fill a worthy program for today and tomorrow.

Redskins Train For All-Stars

CHICAGO—(INS)—The Washington Redskins, professional football champions, resumed hard training today for their game next Wednesday night with the All-Star Collegians at Dyche Stadium, Evanston, Ill.

The pro league champions arrived in Chicago yesterday and engaged only in calisthenics in the afternoon.

Although Head Coach Harry Stuhldreher of the All-Stars believes he has some of the best material that the collegiate squad has boasted in years, Coach Dutch Bergman of the pro team refused to be impressed. He said:

"Despite the overwhelming manpower of the college team and the group of expert coaches who are getting them in shape. I can say for myself and the players that we're confident of winning after a hard battle."

* * *

The Redskins' main worry was the question of how long the great Sammy Baugh would be able to stay in the game and as to whether his back injury would diminish his effectiveness.

The collegians have been working daily on defensive formations with which they hope to stop Baugh's deadly passes.

Air Refusal to Give Race Permit

NEW YORK — (INS) — The refusal of the Metropolitan Jockey Club and the New York State Racing Commission to grant a riding license to Jockey Bobby Merritt will be aired Monday, when the state supreme court reviews the hearing given by Merritt by two racing bodies at Aqueduct, N. Y., May 1.

The court action is unique in the 50-year history of the Jockey Club, in that it is the first time the organization has been hailed into court by a rider. Merritt's decision to resort to the courts came after the Jockey Club denied the pilot a license at the May 1 hearing, then turned down an appeal by Merritt on July 3 without forwarding a reason for refusal of license. The Jockey Club's findings on Merritt were then backed up by the commission.

Santa Clara Also Gives Up Football

SAN FRANCISCO—(U.P.)—Indications increased today that far western football was crumbling for the duration as Santa Clara university, strongest of the independents, followed Stanford, a Pacific coast conference power, in abandoning the game.

Lack of manpower, as in Stanford's case, was responsible for Santa Clara's action.

The announcement, not altogether unexpected, came last night from Santa Clara Director of Athletics George Barsi. He said the university had insufficient material to field a 1943 team.

Coach Lawrence T. (Buck) Shaw will remain at the school o direct physical training for rmy students enrolled there.

As Stanford was the first major onference team to throw in the owel, so Santa Clara was the irst of the independents. St. Mary's, another leading independent has been in the doubtful classification for some time, but no decision has been made.

SPRINGFIELD MEETS BIRMINGHAM CLUB

CHARLOTTE, N. C. —(AP)— Birmingham, Ala., and Springfield, ., American Legion junior baseall teams, play here tonight in the irst game of a two-out-of-three eries to decide the sectional hampionship.

Both teams are fresh from vicories in the regional tourneys. The labama team beat Whiteville, . C., 8-5, in the region 7 finals t Florence, S. C., and the Bucky-yes conquered Belle, W. Va., for he region 6 title at Charleston, . Va.

CHICAGO GRID PROS LEAVE FOR TRAINING

CHICAGO —(INS)— The exodus Chicago's two professional footall teams, the Bears and the Cardnals, for their training quarters gan today.

Thirty of the Bears left this orning for training camp at St. ohn's Military academy, Delald, Wis., and 32 of the Cardials were to leave this afternoon r Waukesha, Wis.

RUFFIN FAVORED IN CLEO SHANS BOUT

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Bobby Ruffin of New York ruled a 7-5 favorite to defeat Cleo Shans of Los Angeles in the feature bout of tonight's lightweight show at Madison Square Garden.

The Buffin-Shans bout headlines a card of three 10-rounds in the first boxing seen at the Garden since June 11. Ruffin was made the favorite over the west coast negro as a result of his splendid record outside of New York and his draw with veteran Terry Young in his last Garden match.

Norman's Homer Beats Red Birds

(By Associated Press)

The Milwaukee Brewers do things with a flourish, whether it's swinging bats or spinning turnstiles, and were highly efficient in both of those maneuvers yesterday in extending their American Association lead to two full games again.

Bill Norman connected for his 14th home run with the bases full and the score tied, 6 to 6, in the 10th inning to defeat the Columbus Red Birds, 10 to 6, and send 4,429 sectators home to lunch in a happy mood.

* * *

Third-place Indianapolis lost further ground as they dropped a 5 to 4 decision to St. Paul.

Louisville moved past Toledo into fourth place by beating Minneapolis, 4 to 1.

Kansas City tied the score in the ninth inning and won in the 13th, 2 to 1, over Toledo in an afternoon contest.

Drake Turns Down Football Offer

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—The Cleveland Press said today that Johnny Drake, brilliant backfield ace for the Cleveland Rams, has turned down a comeback offer of $10,000 to play 10 games for the Philadelphia Eagles during the forthcoming football season.

* * *

Drake, who retired from the game before last season, is now personnel manager of the Thompson Products company plant in Detroit. The Eagles drew the right to his contract three months ago when the Rams withdrew from the National Football league.

* * *

"It was a real temptation to anyone who loves football as much as I do," Drake told the press. "But we have so much war-order business here, and the need for employes is so great that I feel I should stick with my job, not even considering football on a part-time basis."

EASTERN ALL-STAR GAME CANCELLED

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Stanley Woodard, sports editor of the New York Herald-Tribune said today the paper had abandoned plans for the eighth annual Eastern All-Star football game because of the inability to secure players "without asking favors of the armed services."

"Most of the boys whom we would like to have on the 1943 All-Star team are in the service," Woodward said. "It might be possible to get leave for them, but we do not consider that such a practice can be condoned in a nation at war."

JOCKEY EADS QUITS WARREN WRIGHT STABLE

CHICAGO—(INS)—Jockey Wendell Eads and Warren Wright's Calumet farm stable parted company today and Jockey Freddie Smith will be up on Calumet's Mar-Kell in tomorrow's $10,000 Beverly handicap at Washington Park. The announcement was made by Ben Jones, trainer for Wright.

Eads will free-lance during the remainder of the Washington Park meeting. He has ridden for Wright several years, frequently being assigned to ride the famous Whirlaway.

COACHING CHANGES.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Three additional coaching changes in greater Cleveland high schools were announced today. Chester Glasser, former Ohio State University tackle, will take over the coaching reins at John Adams high school Dale Thompson, a former Muskingum university athlete and coach at Barnesville and Rittman, will take over at Euclid Central; and James Calvert of Vermillion high, will act as Thompson's assistant.

3 FROM MORROW GO TO PRISON

Edison, Cardington Men Found Guilty of Evading Draft.

MT. GILEAD—Three Morrow county men were among 10 Jehovah's Witnesses who were sentenced to five years each in prison yesterday in Columbus for selective service violations following jury trials which lasted only three hours. The longest single trial lasted only 20 minutes.

Federal Judge John H. Druffel, Cincinnati, sat on the federal district bench by assignment after three defendants charged Judge Mell G. Underwod with prejudice against the religious sect.

"It is not a question of this court to decide whether you are conscientious objectors," Judge Druffel said. "The only issue before this court is whether or not you reported for induction or physical examination when ordered by your draft boards.

Those sentenced from Morrow county included Roland R. White, 28, and William E. Zohnd, 22, both of Cardington, and Lewis W. Jefferies, 21, of Edison.

Only mention or their sect by name in the entire series of trials was Nobel's question to the jurors today whether they were "prejudiced against Jehovah's witnesses."

All maintained, when speaking before sentence was imposed, that they were "following the word of God."

If you ever need $25, $50, $100 or more quickly and simply, come to Household Finance. If you have a job so that you can repay in small monthly payments, you are welcome to apply for any amount up to $1000. The sooner you repay the less your loan costs. Example: A $50 loan repaid in 6 monthly installments of $9.24 each costs $5.64—if repaid in one month the cost is only $1.50. No endorsers or guarantors are ever needed. We never make inquiries of friends or relatives.

STOCK LEADERS CLIMB UPWARD BY FRACTIONS

Retail Spending Has Summer Let-Down But Exceeds Figures for '42.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Leading stocks advanced small fractions in today's early market proceedings.

At a moderately active opening gainers included U. S. Steel, Anaconda, Bethlehem, N. Y. Central, Twentieth Century-Fox and American Water Works.

Boardrooms scanned the Dun & Bradstreet survey which indicated this week's retail spending experienced the usual summer let-down but, for the country as a whole, topped the comparable 1942 period by 4 to 6 per cent.

CHICAGO —(AP)— Little change was shown in grain prices at the opening today. Trade was light with commission houses providing the bulk of the activity.

Wheat started unchanged to ¼ lower, September $1.44 7-8-3-4, December $1.46 3-4-5-8, and rye unchanged to ¼ lower, September 98½-⅝.

Local Markets

Prices corrected to noon daily are those paid to producers. Obtained from Hanley Milling company, Mansfield Hay and Grain, and Lantz Mills. Differential in prices paid by various firms shown.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

WHEN HOEING LEAVE WEEDS ON SURFACE OF SOIL WHERE THEY WILL QUICKLY DIE
PURSLANE, A WEED WHICH CAN BECOME A REAL GARDEN PEST IN LATE SUMMER

Weeds Are Saboteurs in Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
(Release by Central Press Assn.)

Weeds are a liability in any garden, but in the Victory garden they are saboteurs, working directly against the war effort. If permitted to make headway in the Victory vegetable garden they cause direct losses in food supplies. Aside from competing for food and moisture in the vegetable garden, weeds often act as hosts for insects and diseases which attack related crop plants.

When hoeing or pulling out weeds by hand in the Victory garden, care should be taken to see that they are left exposed on the soil surface between rows, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. The sun and air will quickly kill them and they will serve as a mulch, helping to smother out other weed seeedlings. Later, when worked into the soil, these weeds will add organic matter to it.

Weeds which re-root easily, such as purslane, see illustration, should be burned or added to the compost heap This weed appears with hot weather, develops rapidly and seeds quickly.

WIN ROUND IN WAGE FIGHT

City Employes Told Council Committee Will Consider Raise Request Again.

following a committee caucus last week, said council had decided not to do anything with the request from workers for more pay until the 1944 budget is set up.

The pay raises, if granted, could be provided for when the 1944 operation appropriation measure is set up early next year, it was learned.

Council's decision to delay action on the salary boosts resulted from a deadlock between councilmen who wanted to raise only the workers in the lower pay brackets and those who held out for increases for all the employes, it had been revealed today.

Announcement of the decision, which was reached in a closed council committee session, brought a storm of protest from city workers who today apparently had won re-consideration of their case.

CASE SETTLED

Suit Over Lost, Strayed or Stolen Lamb Ends.

After going through courts the case of a lamb—lost, strayed or stolen—was settled yesterday in common pleas court by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch.

First tried in the justice of the peace court of Worthington township the $30 suit brought by Freeman Swank against Jess Mishey was settled in favor of the plaintiff. It was then appealed to the county common pleas court by the defendant.

Judge Kalbfleisch upheld the decision of the justice court finding Mishey guilty of disposing of the lamb for his own use when he found it after it had strayed from the Swank farm. He was ordered to pay $11.62, the market price of the lamb, and court costs.

STRIKE ENDS

Workers On Army Air Fields Go Back To Work.

WEST POINT N. Y. —(INS)— The four-day strike of 800 workers at Stewart field and three satellite fields in and around the military academy ended today.

The strike, which paralyzed work and interrupted aviation training of the West Point cadets, was called by the building trades council of Newbrush because one of 16 contractors engaged on the job insisted on maintaining an open shop.

OHIO FLIER KILLED.

NEW LEXINGTON (INS)— Sgt. Cyril B. Butler 23 of Crooksville, was one of eight army fliers killed when a four engined army bomber from the Kearney, Neb., air base crashed Tuesday near Wood River, friends learned today.

Use Cellophane.

Assigned to make a batch of icicles for winter resort scenes in the Abbott and Costello comedy, "Hit the Ice," Universal studio's special effects department discovered that silica soda, one of the essential materials needed, was "frozen." Experts of the department thawed out the situation by using salvaged cellophane, which, it has been discovered, photographs better and costs less than the preprriority type. "Hit the Ice," now playing at the Ohio, features Ginny Simms, Patric Knowles, Elyse Knox, Marc Lawrence and Johnny Long and his orchestra.

Two Weeks to Live.

Lum and Abner inherit a railroad line in their latest picture, "Two Weeks to Live," now at the Park. Needing capital badly, the partners sell stock to the residents of Pine Ridge, hoping to put the railroad over. They imagine Pine Ridge as a thriving metropolis as the result of the railroad. When their enterprise fails to go through, they're in hot water. The co-attaction at the Park deals with one of the most timely and dangerous subjects of the present day. It is "Black Market Rustlers," starring Ray Corrigan, Max Terhune and Dennis Moore.

War Picture.

Annabella and John Sutton are co-featured in 20th Century-Fox's romantic war film, "Tonight We Raid Calais," now showing at the Madison. The story is set in a small Nazi-occupied village in France and tells of the heroic resistance of the inhabitants against the hated invaders. Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy are seen in their latest comedy, "Jitterbugs," co-attraction. The two comedians are stranded in a lonely desert as the picture opens. They are taken in by a sharp-talking smoothy who talks them into going into partnership with him.

C., attending conferences with Miss Esther Findley, assistant to the director of Red Cross nursing, on plans for the activities of the volunteer Nurses Aid Corps.

Held For Investigation—A Cuyahoga Falls man who offered a check in payment for his meal at a Mansfield restaurant last night after telling the cashier he had no money, was held by police today until they investigate his financial assets. No charge was filed. The restaurant cashier said the man was unable to identify himself.

SICILY ERASES ITALIAN SIGNS

Starved and Abused, Natives Show Their Joy at Casting Off Yoke of Fascism.

party officials are obviously well fed. In their homes they have big libraries, fine libraries, full wine cellars, expensive paintings. They own cars, and have been allowed gasoline by higher Fascist officials for business and pleasure — including jaunts to their sprawling villas by the sea—and even now are well dressed and thrust out their chests and chins in imitation of Mussolini. Their day, however, is over and the people are glad of it.

Already the flaring Fascist slogans painted on the walls of the island's towns and cities are beginning to fade away.

In the first few days after our landing, those slogans seemed to menace our invasion forces with the threat of strong opposition from a hostile people.

There was a certain impressiveness in the monotonous repetition of the words—"due a noi!" ("our duce") painted every few feet along miles of cement wall. Even ancient churches were defaced by the raggedly-painted cue's cry. Now, as soon as paint is available, Sicilians will quickly blot out those reminders of 2 miserable years of blackshirt rule.

For all its trappings and slogans, Fascism has won only hatred in the hearts of the Sicilian people. Some monuments to Mussolini's reign will endure longer than the slogans: Schools, roads, modernistic Fascist party headquarters, and above all, an undersized, undernourished population.

It was because Fascism brought them oppression and hunger that the Sicilians greeted the Americans as liberators instead of as conquerors. Our propaganda leaflets dropped from planes before the fighting promised the destruction of Fascism fell on fertile ground.

TAKEN BY DEATH

BUCYRUS — The body of William C. Hughes, 67, retired railroader, who died at his home here Wednesday, has been sent to Mars, Pa., for funeral services and burial.

Survivors include his widow, Myra; a sister, Mrs. Grant Campbell; a brother, Barney, living in Pennsylvania, and a brother, Edward, of Bucyrus.

CLAIMS DOCTOR SHORTAGE FAILS TO HURT STATE

Survey Says Ohio Has Only Half Normal Number But Hasn't Suffered.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — No part of Ohio suffers a critical shortage of physicians despite the fact that 2,600 doctors—more than half of those of military age in the state—have gone into service with the armed forces, a survey has indicated.

The survey also showed that the number of "country" doctors has been cut in half, compared with 20 years ago.

A. R. Mangus of the department of rural economics at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station at Wooster said today a survey of nine rural counties showed there was one effective physician for every 1,874 inhabitants compared with one for every 900 persons in 1923.

"The supply of effective doctors," Mangus said, "is not adequate to care for all unmet rural health needs and is far below that which would be required to cope successfully with any unusual demand for medical services, such as an influenza epidemic which came with the last war in 1918."

But Charles S. Nelson, executive secretary of the Ohio State Medical association said "there is no area in Ohio having any suffering because of the lack of doctors."

Though reduction in the number of doctors means that they or their patients must travel farther for treatments, Nelson said, modern communications and transportation permits the doctors still serving their communities to handle their problems.

There were 9,300 physicians in Ohio before the war, Nelson said, of whom approximately 1,000 were not practicing. Of the balance approximately half were under 45 years of age.

Nelson said most of the estimated 350 doctors still wanted as Ohio's share of a reported national quota of 6,000 more army doctors probably would come from metropolitan areas, in order to maintain medical services in the rural areas.

DAMAGE SUIT ASKS $20,000

Widow of Street Commissioner at Plymouth Sues in Mishap Death of Husband.

A $20 000 damage suit has been filed in common pleas court by Pauline Moore, administratrix of the estate of Otis Ervin Moore, deceased, against Fred Grafmiller.

Mrs. Moore charges Grafmiller with negligent operation of a truck that caused the death of her husband. In her petition she states that Moore was street commissioner in Plymouth and Grafmiller was employed by the village street department.

She charges that on Feb. 24, 1943 when Grafmiller was operating a truck on one of the street department jobs, Moore gave him instructions to drive the truck ahead. Instead of following orders and without giving a signal of his intention, Grafmiller backed the truck against a building and against Moore with such force as to cause his death, the petition states.

AIRMAN PARACHUTES HOME

FAIRFIELD, Cal. — (U P) — Lt. Wilton Mason Ward, member of a night fighter squadron, dropped in on his parents at home the other night. On a 10-day leave, Ward had his pilot circle the Mason ranch near Fairfield. Then he bailed out and parachuted home.

Difficult Terrain Slows Up Russians

MOSCOW —(AP)— Difficult going in terrain naturally lending itself to defense was reported slowing down the Red army today as it pressed twin drives on the Nazi bastions of Bryansk and Kharkov.

Front line dispatches to the Soviet army organ Red Star reported Russian troops on the central front were encountering "considerable difficulties and enormous strain" as they battled their way through forests and swamps and across numerous small rivers toward Bryansk.

(The German communique, broadcast from Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press, said violent fighting flared along the Mius river front west of Rostov.

(Fighting raged without letup in the Belgorod front, the German bulletin asserted, adding that Red army attempts to effect break-throughs at other sectors were frustrated. The communique said 486 Russian tanks and 81 planes were destroyed yesterday.)

On the Kharkov front in the Ukraine, some 340 miles south of Bryansk, Russian troops were said to be encountering stiff resistance in attempts to overcome German defenses based on hills forming a natural line around the city.

Mosquitos Strike At Berlin Again

LONDON —(AP)— British mosquito bombers again attacked targets in Berlin last night while fighters struck at airfields and railway targets on the continent, it was announced today.

The night raids followed blows by Allied planes, including American Flying Fortresses, at four of Germany's most important air bases in Holland and France yesterday. A joint British-American communique disclosed 59 enemy aircraft were shot down yesterday.

Intruders last night attacked railway and airfield targets in France and Belgium.

Vlissingen (Flushing) and Gilze-Rijen in Holland were battered by American Flying Fortresses late yesterday afternoon and 34 enemy fighters were shot down by the big bombers and their escorts of U. S. and Allied Thunderbolts and Spitfires, the communique said.

The Fortresses accounted for 16 enemy fighters and their escorts knocked down 18, the bulletin declared. Good bombing results were reported on both targets.

Four bombers and two fighters were lost in these raids, but the pilot of one was saved.

U. S. Marauders and RAF Mitchells earlier in the day had blasted Nazi airfields at Poix and Amiens-Glissy in France. The Americans spearheaded the thrusts, with the British planes following with a second pounding of the airfields at Poix.

Denmark Steps Up Sabotage Campaign

STOCKHOLM— (AP) —A determined, country-wide campaign of sabotage, apparently aimed at destroying land and sea transport facilities used by the Nazis to supply their forces in Norway was reported by travelers arriving here from Denmark today.

Danish patriots, the travelers said, are systematically wrecking Danish factories producing war materials as well as railroads and harbor installations which have become increasingly important to the Germans since they no longer can ship men and supplies across Sweden to Norway.

At the same time representatives of the five major Danish political parties were called into extraordinary session in Copenhagen, apparently to consider changes in the government's policy toward Nazi occupation of Denmark.

Possibility of a switch in government leaders was seen as a result of the conclave.

WARNS ON RATS

Federal Specialist Tells Akron City's Infested With Them.

AKRON —(U.P.)—Oh, rats!

That's what they've got in Akron, according to George W. Dyar, federal rat control specialist of Cleveland.

Dyar informed a city council committee after a survey that rats are infesting the town. He said that a retaining wall near the old postoffice building is one harboring at least 200 rats.

JAHCO BUYS BOMBER

CLEVELAND — (AP) — An 11-day war bond campaign among employes of Jack and Henitz, Inc., aircraft parts makers, netted $32,868 for a bomber to be named "Spirit of Jahco." Company officials said the bonds were paid for in cash and were in excess of workers' regular 15 per cent payroll deductions.

Mayor and Council President Reverse Positions.

CEDARVILLE—(U.P.)—The mayor and the city council president of Cedarville today had switched their jobs.

Mayor C. H. Crouse resigned, automatically elevating Dr. H. H. Abels, council president, to the post. Crouse then was elected a member of council and a few minutes later elected council president.

deserving of high praise for its steps to establish a recreation center on Park avenue east," Dent said, but he added that "the program should be greater in scope if we are to make a more successful approach to the problem."

"It will cost money to carry out such a plan. It is a problem for every Mansfield citizen and a tax levy would be one way in which every Mansfielder would have a chance to express his opinion."

The amount of money required to carry out a comprehensive recreation program has not been determined, the chairman said.

He added, however, that "when and if a decision is reached to place a tax levy on the ballot, we will have a concrete program arranged and will give the voters a clear picture of what is proposed in the way of recreation facilities so they will know what they are voting for or against on election day.

Serving with Dent on the recreation board are W. C. Mead, Carl E. Stough, H. W. Arlin and Paul Tappan.

Boys' Curiosity Derails Engine, Kills Fireman

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. —(AP)— The curiosity of three small boys, two of them five years old and one six, was blamed today for the derailment here yesterday of the New York Central's Wolverine passenger train and the death of its fireman, John R. McCarty, 56, of Jackson, Mich.

Police Inspector Albert F. Scheiern said he was convinced the wreck was caused by stones the boys told him they placed on the tracks "to see what would happen."

Scheiern released the boys to their parents after they related, he said, how they placed stones over about 10 feet of tracks near a siding switch. He said they waited for the train to pass but got tired and had gone home when derailment occurred. Police said there would be no action against them.

The locomotive and four of six cars of the train jumped the tracks.

Alexander Praises American Feats in Sicily Campaign.

FIFTEENTH ARMY GROUP HEADQUARTERS IN SICILY, Aug. 20 —(AP)— Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, commander of the Fifteenth Allied army group, said today the swift conquest of northern Sicily by United States troops was "magnificent."

"I have never seen such remarkable military engineering accomplishments," he said.

Alexander disclosed that he had visited "those American friends of mine" during the fighting in the northern part of the island and observed engineering feats which "I would have never imagined possible."

'BARREL' ROLLS INTO THE ARMY

Former Aide to Vinson, 200-Pounder Inducted Today.

FORT THOMAS, Ky—(AP)—By Edward Pritchard's own admission they rolled the barrel into this army induction center today.

The "barrel," Pritchard said, "is me."

The 200-pound plus former aide to Fred M. Vinson, U. S. economic stabilizer, and one-time clerk to Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, had this to say of his entry into the army:

"I guess they scraped the bottom of the manpower barrel and now they have taken the barrel." Pritchard's home is in Paris, Ky.

GIVE ATTENTION TO PACIFIC WAR

until Japan has reaped the price of her treachery.

"Every ounce of strength we've got we intend to use against Japan."

He gave a hint, too, that the strength probably would be brought to bear, at the times and places dictated by high Allied strategy won in the making, by death dealing sea and sky fleets.

"As you know," he said, "we have some good sailors and accomplished bombers."

Nevertheless, whatever may be the battle plans for the Pacific, events in Europe, where Russia continues to grind down German opposition in the east, indicate that the Allied high command center its urgent attention on taking the utmost advantage of that situation to drain off Nazi strength through amphibious assaults in the west.

Of the master plan for global war now being evolved in the secret deliberations here on the bluffs of the St. Lawrence, Bracken disclosed no details.

The red-haired minister, speaking dramatically and tumbling out his words, did declare that the president and prime minister were the architects of decisions of "vital importance."

He said no important announcements need be anticipated before—or after—a press conference which the principals are expected to hold when their conference ends.

The eminent, respectable, but ruthless gentlemen at the Citadel, Bracken said, are not going to show their hands to the enemy, but the time will come when "Hitler and Tojo and their tribe of gangsters" will get the news from the generals, admirals and air marshals who command "fierce fighting forces."

And, he added, passing a bouquet to scores of newsmen from many lands, it will be well reported in the press in the "best reported war in history."

There were official indications that the war parleys here would continue at least over the weekend. The arrival tomorrow of Cordell Hull, American secretary of state, will complete the list of high officials present.

Hull Due to Reach Quebec Today

QUEBEC—(UP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull and his political adviser in the department, James C. Dunn, will arrive early this afternoon, White House Secretary Stephen T. Early announced today.

Hull will be met at the station by Ray Atherton, newly-appointed minister to Canada.

Says Engine Output Dropped After Senate Group Charges

turning it over to other management but regarded this as too drastic at the time.

Hugh Fulton, committee counsel asked:

"In short, the army position is that it expects to get good management and will assist in doing so, but the company has the alternative of getting adequate management or getting out?"

General Echols agreed but said no deadline had been set in the case of Wright Aeronautical.

Expressing confidence a recent change in management at Lockland would improve conditions, General Echols said "we feel every motor coming out of there now is sound."

Sen. M. C. Walgren (D-Wash), a committee member, declared:

"I have talked to plenty of pilots from combat areas and they say 'there's something wrong with this (Wright) engine.'"

General Echols said he had no such reports himself.

Early in the questioning, General Echols expressed opinion that W. W. Finlay, recently replaced as general manager of the Lockland plant, "did not get results," and answered a direct question by Fulton on his opinion whether Finlay should have been replaced by saying "Yes."

The committee charges, denied by Guy W. Vaughn, president of the parent Curtiss-Wright corp., included an assertion that some parts leaked gasoline. Vaughn asserted that the company never sold products "known to the company to have contained defective or substandard parts."

Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, also declared at the time the committee's report was released last month that "no instance was found where any engines known to be defective were ever placed in service."

at least four 160-foot barges and damaged three destroyers, probably sinking one. The Japanese were trying to sneak troops onto Vella Lavella island, recently seized by American ground forces, and relieve the threat to their Solomons holdings.

American troops who landed on Baanga island, just off recently-conquered Munda on New Georgia in the central Solomons, were wiping out an enemy pocket. There was no new report on progress against Bairoko harbor, on New Georgia.

Two Corsair pilots shot down two of six enemy Zeros in a dogfight over Kahili, on Bougainville in the northern Solomons. Light surface units, probably PT boats, scattered enemy barges found off Bairoko and off Vila, on Kolombangara, northwest of New Georgia.

Beaufighters harassed enemy shipping along the New Britain coast north of New Guinea and two Liberators, operating near the major Japanese base at Kavieng, New Ireland, scored near misses on a 7,000-ton merchantman and bombed several island camps.

Two forces of Mitchells made a night raid on the Koepang area of Timor, touching off fires and explosions, and Liberators bombed the Manokwari, Dutch New Guinea, docks and hit at enemy-held island villages nearby. A small coastal ship was sunk and a lugger damaged in the Dutch New Guinea sector.

vigorous protests from members against the tentative open season on deer.

The open season, extending from Dec. 6 to 18, would permit shooting with bow and arrows or shotguns only. Counties in which shooting would be permitted include Scioto, Adams and Pike in southern Ohio and Ashtabula, Columbiana, Cuyahoga, Geauga, Lake, Mahoning, Portage, Stark, Summit, and Trumbull in the northeastern corner of the state.

Ensminger said a few deer have been reported in Mohican State park and some of them occasionally wander into southeastern Richland county. Others have been reported in the northeastern part of the county.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, AUGUST 20, 1943.

Now that elderberries are not so cheap, maybe you'll like them better.

Wonder if Humboldt also discovered a way to account for the "cold days of August"?

"Ours not to reason why," may as well be the attitude of motorists in the "A" classification, as they note "B" or "C" stickers on a majority of windshields.

Absence of Stalin Overstressed

LEAST justifiable of civilian criticism of Allied conduct of the war is that which seeks to show a breach in unity and understanding between Russia, Great Britain and the United States, because of the absence of Stalin from Roosevelt-Churchill conferences.

One consideration, if there were no other, is that Russia is not at war with Japan, nor is the shrewd Marshal Stalin inclined to move in a way that might provoke hostilities on the Siberian front while his armies are engaged in a desperate struggle with Nazi invaders who still occupy considerable Russian territory.

Russia's strong appeals for quick establishment of a second front, meaning land invasion of western Europe, is also fully understandable, as this would immediately relieve still strong German pressure in Russia, however costly it might prove to Great Britain and the United States.

In all probability the great loss of lives which Russia has already sustained—running into the millions—has tended to make this a less important factor of invasion plans than it is considered by British and Americans.

It has frequently been said, and cannot be doubted, that Stalin is being kept fully informed as to European phases of the Roosevelt-Churchill conferences, and it is again announced from Quebec that, "When directives are shaped they will, as has been customary in the past, be communicated with all possible speed to Stalin."

There will probably be a time when it will be vitally important for Stalin, Churchill and Roosevelt to meet for discussion of postwar plans, and it was suggested by Capt. Edward Rickenbacker a few days ago, that, if necessary, Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill might well go to Russia for such a meeting.

An important thing to be kept in mind now is that the war hasn't been won—and that it won't be won by columnists, commentators or civilian critics—that it WILL BE WON by Allied fighting forces on land and sea, and in the air, and by the hard work of those at home who produce the food, planes, ships, tanks, guns and all the other thousands of large and small pieces of equipment and supplies required to outfit and maintain an army, navy and air force that totals millions of men.

Less adverse criticism of military procedure, in the absence of full information, and more wholehearted co-operation with the national and United Nations war effort, is recommended as a course most likely to hasten much desired victory and restoration of peace.

Work or School for Boys and Girls?

A QUESTION now arising in regions where boys and girls have been working during the summer vacation is whether they shall continue at work or return to school. Pay envelopes tempt young folks to stay on at jobs, and manpower shortage tempts their elders to let them do so.

But what are we fighting for? To raise a generation of young men and women who make a lot of money when the making's good and don't know how to take care of themselves when it's not? A generation of easy-spending softies like some who were reared in the twenties? Such people think too little, are easily embittered and easily swayed by propaganda. Or shall we raise strong, temperate people who know how to use their minds and whose knowledge of the history and needs of their country is sufficient to let them know what life and government and business are about, so the country may be safe in their hands?

Too much emphasis cannot be given the need of every boy and girl getting as much education as they are mentally able to acquire and put to good use.

Compromises are being studied. Possibly schedules may be worked out in some places which will permit four-hour work shifts with four-hour school. Many extra-curricular activities which made school days long were planned to keep young people harmlessly busy. Now they are constructively employed helping to save their country.

Shortage of Small Articles Noted

SMALL INDUSTRIES unable to convert to war production will be helped by the Smaller War Plants Corp. to get orders for essential civilian articles, says Dan B. Ford of the SWPC.

This will be good news not only to the plants themselves but to civilians who are struggling along without small articles which they very much need, especially in the business of housewifery.

Brooms are one of the articles soon to be authorized. Insecticides, garbage pails and rat traps are among the needed objects. Then there are carpet sweepers, baking pans, jar wrenches, ice picks, flour sieves, meat grinders, can openers, metal lunch boxes, vacuum bottles and pot scourers.

All of these are important, but two should head the list—can openers and pot scourers. Many families are having difficulty preparing cans for government collection because their old can openers are wearing out.

Ancient and Modern Warfare

AN INTERESTING combination of ancient and modern warfare was seen in a mock battle fought the other day by a regiment of the New York Guard, operating on Grand Island. It tackled a military problem originated by Col. Allan F. Reif, and except for one thing it might have come right out of the Middle Ages.

Imaginary invaders penetrated deep into the Guard's defenses, and then the defenders rallied to attack them. According to the account of a technical observer, "the big gun in the invaders' attack was a giant slingshot, made of a forked piece of iron tubing, which catapulted flour grenades 75 yards." The modern touch came from six civil air patrol planes attached to the defending forces, serving as observers.

Except for the airplanes, that attack must have suggested an assault by Richard the Lion Hearted when he invaded Palestine in the twelfth century.

PRODUCTION MUST NOT LAG

Gallant Fighting In the Pacific Proves Successful Holding Action

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

AS THE BIG CHIEFS go into action at Quebec to grease the skids for Nazidom it strikes me that we might well pause for a touch of the cap to our gallant fighting services which have continued to hold our Pacific lines while we have been engaged in "beating Hitler first."

It gives one a chill to think what might have happened to Australia, the Hawaiian Islands, Alaska or even the west coast of continental United States if it hadn't been for the skill and sacrifice of all categories in the Far Pacific. They've done one of the decisive jobs of the war.

Our latest aerial success this week at Wewak, New Guinea, is a reminder that not only have our Pacific forces performed the essential holding operation against a powerful enemy, but they have done the "impossible by seizing the initiative and putting the Japs on the defensive.

In the Wewak show our bombers destroyed or damaged some 215 precious enemy planes, thereby virtually wiping out Nipponese airpower in central New Guinea.

The significance? Well, that beautiful job brings us just so much closer to the day when we shall wipe out the great Jap naval base at Truk, thus rendering the Mikado's forces impotent in that whole vast zone of islands northeast of Australia. The little men of the Rising Sun are being forced back step by step.

MEANTIME in the "Hitler first" campaign, Moscow reports that the Germans are counter-attacking before Kharkov on the fiercely contested southern battle-front, seeking an opening for an offensive to offset the devastating Red drive. Such a development would greatly intensify the already bloody crisis which is threatening to force the Nazi chief to withdraw his entire great line in Russia.

This turn of events has resulted in the Soviet army newspaper, Red Star, making a fresh appeal for a second land front in western Europe, to force Hitler to divert troops from Russia and put him on the defensive in both west and east. The paper says that "only such an operation can cut down the length of the war to any considerable extent."

Red Star estimates the German force in Russia at 211 divisions, which might run close to 3,000,000 effectives. There are said to be some 16 divisions more (say over 200,000 men) in reserve in Poland. About 75 other divisions (maybe 1,000,000 troops) are estimated to be distributed over the rest of Europe.

"The disposition of the German forces and reserves clearly proves that the German general staff does not await any forthcoming large, serious operations by the Allies on the continent," says Red Star.

All this is set forth by the newspaper with direct reference to the Quebec conference, and of course anything published in Red Star represents the government view. This being so, Moscow isn't likely to get great satisfaction out of the news that American warships were shelling the Italian mainland.

Such a bombardment would be an essential preliminary to an invasion of the peninsula, though it doesn't necessarily forecast such an operation. Even if it does presage invasion of the foot, it doesn't preclude invasion elsewhere as well. Anyway, the point is that Russia's main interest is in an invasion of western Europe and not of Italy.

So far as Quebec is concerned, the need of a land front in western Europe at the earliest feasible moment was conceded long ago by the Allied high command. Therefore the problem of Messrs Roosevelt and Churchill and their advisers isn't whether there should be such a front but when it will be feasible to establish it.

The Russian report that the Germans are trying to find an opening for a counter-offensive in the Kharkov sector is vastly important. It may mark Hitler's supreme effort to save his blood-soaked line. If so we are likely to see some of the most terrific fighting of the whole war.

Dave Boone Says:

IT'S A RELIEF to get a laugh with the war news, and Berlin sure has some good comics who are going all out to make the world giggle. It issues a claim that all that has happened to the Nazi forces in Sicily is a notable military achievement which will go down in history as equivalent to a great victory.

* * *

Yes, sir, it's one of the most glorious feats of arms in German history. And they would celebrate if they could manage to get up off the floor and get some smelling salts.

* * *

"Our forces have made a huge military achievement," says Berlin, "made possible by the gallantry of Axis troops and the indefatigable action of the German navy." This is the first time anybody has heard the German navy was around, although there were reports from our side that they heard a lot of rowing.

* * *

Another Berlin report gloats over the Sicily defeat as a "glorious disengagement" conducted according to a thirty-eight-day plan. Can you imagine Adolf getting a kick out of being called the Great Disengager?

* * *

And what do you think Germans would have said if back four or five years ago der fuehrer, in one of those screaming radio broadcastas, had bellowed. "The hour has struck; watch me disengage myself. It is the sacred duty of every German to retreat according to plan."

Reported Air Torpedo Sinking of Ships Throws Suspicion on Spain

WASHINGTON—The Spanish and Nazi radio blared forth a message last week-end, which, if true, sounds very suspicious for supposedly neutral Spain. On the basis of the Axis-Spanish announcement, it would appear that Germany had established a secret bomber base in the Spanish Balearic Islands or somewhere in Spain.

What the German radio claimed was that a squadron of Nazi torpedo planes (on Friday, Aug. 13) sank 70,000 tons of Allied shipping including two destroyers and four large merchant ships, just east of Gibraltar, as a big convoy was entering the Mediterranean.

The interesting thing about the Nazi communique was that the raid was reported made by torpedo planes. It happens that torpedo planes have a very limited radius, between 300 and 400 miles. Because of the tremendous weight of the torpedo they cannot fly far; cannot spare much time hovering around in the air looking for their target. In fact some of the torpedo planes which went out to get the Bismarck were purely sacrifice planes never expected to come back.

Compared to this 300-400 mile radius, it is a full 800 miles from Gibraltar to the nearest base in France.

Big mystery, therefore is where the Nazi torpedo planes came from. Was it the nearby Balearic Isles, or a hidden point on the coast of Spain? This is the first case in a long long time that Axis torpedo planes have been able to penetrate anywhere near Gibraltar.

The Spanish radio gave further corroborating details, told how the Allied convoy was composed of 70 ships bound for Africa and how German pilots had been picked up by Spanish ships, while a German plane made an emergency landing at Aguilas.

But there was nothing to explain how German torpedo planes were able to make this record-breaking flight. So, either the Nazis have developed a new long-range torpedo plane or else Franco has given the Nazis a secret base in Spain.

Note: Secretary Hull recently told newsmen that he was entirely satisfied with his foreign policy, considered Franco with the United States.

Yes, We Have No Bananas.

WHO get Mexico's bananas? While President Roosevelt is in Quebec, he might say a word to Prime Minister Mackenzie King about the question, for Canada is now getting most of the bananas that would normally come to the United States from Mexico and Guatemala.

This is because U. S. price ceilings have made this market less attractive.

U. S. fruit merchants, done out of a good product, appealed to the Office of Defense Transportation which appealed to the Interstate Commerce commission, which issued a ban on use of U. S. cars to carry freight from one foreign country to another.

This was aimed at banana cars sent from Mexico across the U. S. A. to Canada. It stopped the shipments, but not for long. Promptly, the Mexican embassy in Washington protested to the state department, asking relief from the ban, and Mr. Hull protested to ODT.

Solution probably will be an agreement to limit banana shipments to Canada, cutting off the big shipments, and making more bananas available to the U. S. A.

PEOPLE who have talked to the duPonts lately find that they are very much opposed to Wendell Willkie, consider him too progressive, but are very strong for Gov. Dewey . . . Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, who has not been so keen about Willkie lately, took a trip through New England this summer and was amazed at Willkie's popularity. In that part of the country, according to Bridges, there is no question whom the Republicans want as their 1944 nominee . . . The AFL and CIO got together in Illinois recently and decided that Democratic Senator Scott Lucas's labor record was too reactionary for them. On the other hand his probable Republican opponent for re-election, Richard Lyons, was even worse. So labor groups are now looking around for an independent candidate to run for Senator in Illinois . . . Gen. ERNIE PYLE — Roving Reporter

Characteristics of General Bradley That Account for His Popularity.

SOMEWHERE IN SICILY—(By Wireless)—Lieut. Gen. Omar Nelson Bradley is 50. He is married, and has a daughter who is the apple of his eye.

Mrs. Bradley is living at West Point for the duration, as are the wives of several other generals in this area. Their daughter, Elizabeth, who is 19, will be a senior at Vassar this fall. It's only 30 miles from Vassar to West Point, so she can be with her mother for week-ends.

Each of them writes to the general about three times a week, so on the average he gets about one letter a day from home. They usually write him V-letters.

He writes back about twice a week, although during hard campaigns two or three weeks sometimes get by without his having time to write. When he does write he pecks out the letters on a portable typewriter, using a very proficient two-finger system.

Elizabeth is majoring in French at Vassar, and this summer she had the ecstatic experience of talking to Gen. Henri Giraud in his own language and asking him about her father, whom Giraud had seen just before leaving Africa. General Bradley, incidentally, doesn't speak any foreign language.

The whole Bradley family is devout in its esteem for Gen. George C. Marshall, the army's chief of staff. When General Bradley got his third star Elizabeth wrote him a letter of congratulations in which she said they knew he was "the greatest general in the world—next to General Marshall."

GENERAL BRADLEY is a tall man, who seems thin, although he weighs 182 pounds. His legs are long and he is a terrific walker. Recently Hanson Baldwin did a piece about him in The New York Times which Mrs. Bradley wrote her husband was "an excellent piece except he called you medium height, which made me furious." Actually the general is just half an inch under 6 feet, in his socks.

The general is deeply tanned. He is getting bald on top, and the rest of his hair is cut short and speckled with gray. His head flares out above the ears more than the average man's, giving him a "dome" and an air of erudition. He wears faintly tinted tortoise-rimmed glasses.

It would be toying with the truth to call him handsome, instead of good-looking. His face shows the kindness and calmness that lie behind it.

To me General Bradley looks like a school teacher rather than a soldier. When I told him that he said I wasn't far wrong, because his father was a country school teacher and he himself has taught at West Point and other places. His specialty was mathematics.

The general doesn't smoke at all. He takes his cigaret rations and gives them away. He drinks and swears in great moderation. There is no vulgarity in his speech. Back home, he says, he and Mrs. Bradley probably took one drink a month before supper. Over here where liquor is hard to get he drinks hardly ever, but he does pour a dust-cutting libation for visitors who show up at supper-time. He has three bottles of champagne that somebody gave him, and he saved them for the capture of Messina.

The general's voice is high and clear, but he speaks so gently you don't hear him very far away. His aides say they have never known him to speak harshly to anyone. He can be firm, terribly firm, but he is never gross, nor rude. His quality of "ordinariness" puts people at their ease.

A quaking candidate for a commission in the officers' school at Fort Benning, Ga., was once interviewed by General Bradley, and when the soldier came out he said, "Why, he made me feel like a general myself."

He is just the opposite of a "smoothie." His conversation is not brilliant or unusual but it is packed with sincerity. The general still has the Middle West in his vocabulary—he uses such expressions to "fighting to beat the band" and "a horse of another color."

* * *

GENERAL BRADLEY is a hard man to write about, in a way, just because he is no normal. He has no idiosyncrasies, no superstitions, no hobbies. He doesn't collect seashells. He doesn't read Schopenhauer. There is nothing odd or spectacular about him.

He laughs goodnaturedly at small things and has an ordinary middle-western sense of humor. One day at Sidi Nsir, after General Eisenhower had been visiting there, General Bradley walked into the room where his chief of staff was working and said:

"Bill, General Eisenhower says you're out of uniform today."

The chief of staff—a colonel and an old friend of General Bradley's—was perturbed. He looked at his leggings, his necktie, his shirt—everything seemed all right to him. And then General Bradley said:

"No, no, it isn't your clothes. You've got on the wrong insignia."

Whereupon he walked over, unpinned the eagle from the colonel's shirt collar, and pinned on a star. That was his way of informing his friend he had been promoted to brigadier general.

More Sunday.

Listen World! — By ELSIE ROBINSON

Nix on Valentines

I AM PROUD of my sex. I'm convinced that the American woman is as lovely and as smart as any female on earth. Also she has enormous privilege, freedom and opportunity.

But I do not think that any women are less prepared for practical life than we Americans. The dumbest Fiji islander knows what it's all about better than the average American wife or mother.

For there is one flaw in our training. We may seem to be careerists. We may be outstanding professionals or artists. But underneath all the shellac we are incurably sentimental. By tradition and training the American woman is led to believe that R-O-M-A-N-C-E is the top flight achievement for the human femme.

That doesn't mean wifehood or motherhood. It doesn't mean maintaining a home. It means love making—adoring admiration—passionate possession with all the sighs and furbelows. And that, gals, is the bunk. And is responsible for nine tenths of our ruined homes and broken hearts.

No other woman of any race, civilized or savage, bases her marriage on the dreams which animate the American maiden. The Europeans and Asiatics have known from time immemorial that marriage is a practical as well as a sacred business.

In individual instances love may be involved but it's not the Big Idea. The big idea is to make a home, raise a family, create a niche in respectable life. And incidentally, if possible, find tenderness and companionship with your partner. But, even if you don't, stick at the job anyway.

Nor does one need to turn to Europe, Asia or Africa for such a pattern of marriage. Our own forefathers and foremothers observed that pattern. They had no valentine illusions. Marriage to them was a serious job. If they thereby found happiness, that was velvet. If they didn't they found consolation in that unique and almost forgotten term, "duty."

They may or may not have loved each other when they married. Personally I've seen few of our founding fathers that I would have dated. But if the beginning was cool the years brought satisfaction in the pride of honest achievement, in the joy of family life.

But today we have gone Hollywood. We expect our married lives to be a Hollywood script and if they aren't? Why then it must be the other fellow's fault. Or we are misunderstood. So immediately, if not sooner, we take another chance.

What's the answer? It's a tragic one as you'd know if you read the letters which pile upon my desk. They are not always from divorcees. Often they are letters from steady, faithful wives and mothers in their forties. These wives and mothers have been married for twenty years.

They married with all our traditional American dreams of everlasting honeymoons, and they have clung to those dreams. But those dreams did not come true. In time their husbands became business men, politicians, ranchers—busy men with little time for fancy words or gestures. And with that change a terrible disillusionment came to their wives.

Or the years may have wrought havoc. The girl who dimpled and sparkled at 19 has a double chin and gray hair at 45 and can no longer apply as a Powers model. Yet she still has nineteen-year-old expectations. Than which there could be nothing dumber.

For life can be just as adventurous with a double chin as with a dimple, and there's no reason why life should lose its 'glamor simply because your husband ceases being a Romeo and becomes a good business man. In fact, if you've the sense God gave a woodtick, you realize and accept your blessings.

So stop longing to be a pin up girl, sister, and realize that life is the swellest break that could be handed you even if it isn't embroidered with hearts.

EVE MARIE TIETZ TO BECOME BRIDE IN FALL

Announcement Made Last Night at Party, Given To Group of Friends, Tells of Coming Marriage To Robert Bissler.

FRIENDS of Miss Eve Marie Tietz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Tietz, 125 Blymyer avenue, learned of her betrothal to Robert K. Bissler of Kent, last evening at a party given by her mother. Although the exact date of the wedding has not yet been chosen, the nuptials will be an event of late fall at the St. Peter's Catholic church.

The announcement, concealed in a deck of cards, was discovered by Mrs. S. C. Bissler, mother of the bridegroom-to-be. The diversion prizes were won by Mrs. Rexford Sampsell, Mrs. Ira Bissler, Mrs. Joseph Mayer and Mrs. Peter Mayer

The honoree was presented with an electrical gift from her mother. At a late hour refreshments were served buffet style from a table centered with mixed flowers in the shape of a wedding ring and appointments in pink and white. The favors were pictures of the young couple. Mrs. Bissler of Kent poured.

Miss Tietz is a graduate of St. Peter's high school, St. Thomas School of Nursing and at the present time is in charge of the student nurses at Akron university

Mr. Bissler, son of Mr. and Mrs. S C. Bissler of Kent, is a graduate of Miami university, member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity, and is now associated with his father in business.

Out-of-town guests at the party were Miss Jane Oborn, Ashland, Mrs. V. Yohner, Mrs. S C. Bissler, Mrs. Rexford Sampsell, Mrs. Ira Bissler, and Miss Martha Bissler, all of Kent.

LUNCHEON MEET.

Mrs. Charles Kochheiser, Douglas avenue, was hostess yesterday to members of the Every Other Thursday club for a one o'clock luncheon at her home. Six members were present and one guest, Mrs Spencer Ball. Mrs. Edward Schuler was welcomed as a new member Cards were the diversion with prizes won by Mrs Wayne Terry, Mrs William Peckruhn and Mrs. Robert McDaniel The next meeting will be held Sept. 2 at the McDaniel home, Wise avenue

Presbyterian Women Meet For Program

Women of the First Presbyterian church met for an informal party in the church parlors Thursday afternoon with more than 100 present. The program consisted of a play, "Trudy's Flag," which was presented by Mrs. W. J. Robbins Members of the cast were Mrs. Robbins, Nancy, Nanette and John Robbins, Mrs. Edwin Davison, Charles and Mary Davison and Frank Davis. The scene was in a mountaineer's home.

This was followed by mountain songs sung by Mrs. Charles Young. The social hour was in charge of Mrs. Clarence Netting's Circle Three. Mrs. Netting and Mrs. Young presided at the refreshment table which was attractive with garden flowers.

This meeting took the place of the regular guild session. The next guild meeting will be held on Sept. 16 at the church at which time Mrs. Charles Farry will give an illustrated talk on "The Life of Christ in Art." Circle meetings will be held on Sept. 2.

Give Post-Nuptial Party for Mrs. Joseph Marfia

Mrs. Joseph Marfia, nee Phyllis Elaine Mace, was honored Wednesday evening with a post-nuptial party and crystal shower when her sister, Mrs. Charles H. Walter, 456 Bowman street, entertained. Contests and cards were the diversions with prizes won by Mrs. Frank Brucato and Mrs. Raymond Walter, who presented them to the honoree.

Refreshments were served later at a long table decorated with appointments in the orchid and yellow color scheme The hostess gave the honoree a gift of crystal and the guests surprised her with many lovely gifts.

Tonight Mrs. Richard Coleman and Miss Ann Louise Parson will entertain in her home

School Belles Try Applique Magic

Neatest trick of the year for pepping up new clothes or remaking old ones is the newborn fad of felt ready-cut appliques, designed by Ruzak. Hearts, flowers and folderols come packaged with complete sewing instructions.

SWEATER GIRL: Felt palm trees add glamor to an old sweater and skirt.

TEEN FAD-SHION: Appliqued felt hearts and rick-rack transform a plain hat and bag set, and matching patch-pocket belt.

DAISY CHAIN: Cut-out daisies and leaves connected by embroidery stitch put this blue jumper out-of-this-world.
